Churchill Upheld With Britain In "Mortal Peril"

HOUSE VOTES 'CONFIDENCE' BY 475 TO 25

Prime Minister Says Empire In Gravest Danger Since Fall of France.

REVEALS LIBYA LOSS

Says Axis Took 50,000 Men, Much Materiel; Tobruk Fall Termed Surprise.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Empty-handed and humble, but rockribbed in confidence of ultimate triumph, Prime Minister Winston Churchill won an overwhelming vote of confidence in the house of commons today at a moment when he himself admitted the British empire is in "mortal peril."

By the resounding tally of 475 votes to 25, the house threw out a motion of non-confidence in his conduct of the war introduced by Sir John Wardlaw-Milne.

The house cast its vote after hearing the prime minister say that brilliant offensive activities by the United States Navy and air force had definitely swung the balance of power in the Pacific from Japan to the United Nations.

Thus parliament and the nation once again entrusted their future, their hopes and their fate in the prime minister, accepting his disheartening disclosure that 50,000 men have been lost in Libya and his grave warning that instead of ending in 1942 as many wishful thinkers hope, the war will be a long one.

To the "blood, toil, sweat and tears" which were all he could promise at the outset of his regime, Churchill frankly admitted he had added "muddle and mismanagement." He offered to take full responsibility and in heartfelt tribute to the "prodigious" war effort of the United States he held out hopes that better times will come.

The house celebrated Churchill's victory with one of those astonishing demonstrations characteristic of Britain's parliament.

For more than a week, the house had been in a veritable lather of criticism, castigation and abuse—all of it, without exception, directed against the person of the prime minister.

But when the tellers made known that he had so well survived the first non-confidence motion directed against him since he took office, the picture was reversed entirely.

There were thunderous cheers,

Argue Fair Future at Meet Friday

Date for Decision Moved Up a Day; Pro and Con Arguments Heard.

When members of the Richland county fair board get together Friday night at the courthouse to decide whether to call off the 1942 fair to save tires, there may be some pre-Fourth of July "fireworks" before the question is settled.

The meeting, which was moved up from Saturday night to avoid conflict with the Fourth of July observance, is scheduled for 8 30 p. m. in the probate courtroom. It was called by C. C. Hout, chairman of the fair board.

Hout and other members of the board have expressed their desire to go ahead with the fair this year, while open opposition to the exposition has been voiced by a number of persons in the city and county. Members of the board will have a chance to say what they think about it at the meeting tomorrow night.

The meeting is the result of an appeal from Joseph B. Eastman, federal defense transportation director, to cancel all fairs and unnecessary meetings to help save tires and gasoline.

A state-wide survey today revealed that many Ohio county and independent fair boards will hold their expositions as usual, disregarding Eastman's plea. They explained their action by saying that their plans for this year's fairs are nearly complete and they would suffer heavy financial loss to call them off now.

At least 10 Ohio county and independent boards have voted to go ahead with plans for their 1942 fairs while several others are waiting "to see what the other fellow does."

Counties which have decided to hold fairs this year include Seneca, Champaign, Logan, Delaware, Tuscarawas, Miami, Clinton, Greene, Warren, and Auglaize. The Ashley board also voted to hold a fair.

Boards in Franklin, Knox, Madison, Lorain, Wayne, and a number of other counties have taken no action, indicating they would wait until others have decided what to do about this year's fairs.

By a unanimous vote, however, directors of the Circleville Pumpkin show have decided to cancel it. The Preble county fair and the Ohio State fair had already been called off.

In reply to a telegram protesting that it was "unfair" discrimination "to ask county fairs to suspend while other entertainments are permitted to run, Chairman Hout of the Richland county board today was told by the office of defense transportation at Washington that "there must be a patriotic understanding if this job

'VICTORY' BONUS

Flxible Company Splits Melon With 500 Employes.

LOUDONVILLE — More than 500 employes of the Flxible company shared today in a "victory bonus," distributed by the firm.

Hugo H. Young, president of the company, which operates two plants here and another in Millersburg, said that most workers — those having more than a year's service—were awarded two $100 war bonds and $50 in cash.

Employes with shorter lengths of service were given proportionate amounts. All former employes of the firm now in the armed services also shared in the distribution. The bonus was based on the length of their service with the company.

The company is one of the largest manufacturers of medium-size buses, and is now engaged in building equipment for transportation of armed forces.

British Fight to Defend These Keys of Empire In Egypt

At bottom, ships steam through the Suez canal which the British have threatened to destroy if Axis capture becomes imminent.

TWO BURGLARIES BRING ONLY $58

Thieves Break Into 5 Places In City But Get Nothing In Three of Them.

Mansfield police reported that burglars took $29 from the Smart Music Studio in the Roth building at 5 Park avenue west and the same amount from the home of Roy L. Means, 363 Wheatrow street. Thieves also entered the Kay dress shop and Eggert hat shop in the Roth building and a grocery store at 284 Cline avenue. They got nothing in those three places.

Entire Crew Saved as U-boat Torpedoes Large U. S. Vessel

(By International News Service)

AN EAST COAST PORT—Fifty survivors from a large U. S. merchant ship torpedoed in the Atlantic were brought safely to this port today, 11 hours after their vessel was sent to the bottom by a submarine in broad daylight.

Not a single life was lost in the attack.

The torpedo struck the vessel amidships and started a fire. The crew immediately took to lifeboats in orderly fashion, and a short time later the ship slid beneath the water.

Rescue craft picked up the survivors several hours later.

Capt. William R. Stewart, of Rahway, N. J., master of the merchantman, said:

"The attack was a complete surprise particularly because I had sailed more than 18,000 miles through dangerous waters in the past few months and we had almost reached home port when the torpedo hit us."

John J. Johnson of Dover, N. J., an able-bodied seaman, was in the crow's nest when the ship was hit.

"The explosion jarred me heavily and I noticed at the same time that it knocked many of my shipmates off their feet."

He did not see the submarine. A six-man navy gun crew was aboard the vessel but it did not have a chance to fire at the U-boat.

Check Up on Bond, Stamp Sale After Gala 'White-Out'

Mansfield merchants were busy today checking over their war stamps and bond sales yesterday in connection with the "Whiteout for Victory" program that drew thousands of Mansfield people to the downtown section during the noon hour.

Paul M. Eliot, chairman of the stamps and bonds committee, said that it probably would be late today before all sales were reported as close to 100 places of business participated in the event.

The sale of war stamps at the Mansfeild postoffice was greatly increased over the average day's sale, Postmaster H. E. Homberger reported. The stamp sale amounted to $3,390 and that of bonds to $656.25.

Union Membership Clause Hit As Impediment to War Effort

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A maintenance of membership clause, enforced by the government as a union security provision, may tend to impede rather than accelerate the war production program, Republic Steel corporation counsel told the war labor board today.

Under "maintenance of membership," said T. F. Patton, Republic counsel, "employes electing to remain members of the union accept union membership and payment of dues as a condition of employment. Under those circumstances they are not in a position to voice objections to arbitrary or unwise demands made by union leaders, or to threats of turbulence and stoppage of work in case such demands are not met."

Republic was the third of the four "little steel" companies to present final arguments against the demands of the CIO United Steel Workers for a wage boost of $1 a day, the union shop and the company checkoff of union dues.

The union opened the arguments yesterday with a three-hour oral presentation by President Philip Murray, Harold Ruttenberg, the union's economist, and Lee Pressman, CIO counsel.

Pressman submitted an extended argument for the full union shop, under which all employes of a company could have to join the union. The maintenance of membership plan, which the board has favored, does not compel present employes to join. Those who are members usually have a specified period to withdraw, if they desire. Future employes, however, must join.

Axis Columns Driven Back At El Alamein

Germans, Italians Make Counter-Claim Vital Village Seized In Thrust Toward Alexandria; Battle Rages With Greatest Intensity.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Fighting the battle for Egypt in a desert sandstorm, the British announced today the repulse of powerful Axis armored and infantry attacks at El Alamein, 70 miles west of Alexandria, but the Germans and Italians asserted they had seized that drab coastal village and were pursuing the British headlong toward the inviting green delta of the Nile.

All sources agreed on the intensity of the conflict, but on nothing else.

"Results were not unfavorable to us," British headquarters in Cairo declared in reporting a battle that continued all day yesterday.

The armored forces of Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel were acknowledged to have made a temporary break at one defended locality, only to be driven out again by the British columns.

Farther south, on the edge of the great Qattara depression, British forces ranged 17 miles west of their positions to engage Axis units, but the main battle obviously was along the coastal road toward Alexandria, where General Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck chose to make his stand against persistent frontal assault.

Despite the sandstorms, the RAF continued intense bombing and strafing of the enemy in the El Alamein area, the British said, but the Axis claimed domination of the skies over the battlefield.

The Germans credited their fire-bombers with paving the way for the claimed breakthrough at El Alamein.

The Vichy French expressed fears that the British might destroy the French battleship, submarine, four cruisers and three destroyers which have been interned at Alexandria since the fall of France, rather than let them fall into the enemy's hands.

Any act against these ships would be one of "violence," warned a semi-official Vichy statement.

The stand by the British followed a 350-mile retreat across the desert in less than three weeks.

It seemed certain, however, that on the outcome of the battle depended not only the fate of Alexandria, with its great naval base, but the whole British position in the eastern Mediterranean.

The Eighth army was bolstered for the struggle by support troops and reserves stretching back across the desert to Alexandria.

IN ARMY THREE MONTHS, KILLED

Mansfield Youth Meets Death In Camp Accident; Was Married on May 10.

A Mansfield youth inducted into the U. S. army three months ago was killed yesterday while in training at Camp Claiborne, La.

A terse message sent to the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David C. Neibel, North Main street road, said their son, Robert, had been accidentally shot. No other details were given.

An Associated Press dispatch from Alexandria said Niebel died in the station hospital of a gunshot wound suffered while practicing marksmenship on the camp range.

He was a member of Company E, 326th infantry, 82nd division.

From Loudonville it was learned that young Niebel had been married on May 10 at Alexandria, La., and had not yet told his parents.

Private Niebel was married to Eleanor Mowery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mowery, of Loudonville, the girl's mother told The News-Journal today.

CLAIM: Nazis Say Sevastopol Falls, Hint All-Out Offensive

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts)—Germany claimed full possession of Sevastopol today and military authorities declared Adolf Hitler's mainland armies had completed line-straightening operations preparatory to attack in a second great phase of the war against Soviet Russia.

Mobilization for an all-out offensive was implied.

Hitler's newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter, said the Sevastopol campaign and other operations on the Russian front all "were initiating a new phase of the fight."

(German dispatches to neutral Switzerland indicated that every available weapon was being utilized in drives intended to consolidate invasion positions in Russia and the Mediterranean basin before the end of 1942 and before the institution of Allied action to which the Axis press refers as "the coming siege of Europe.")

Germans pictured the Crimea —studded with potential air and sea bases for thrusts at the oil-rich Caucasus—as essentially cleared of organized resistance.

Sevastopol's fall was announced with a fanfare of trumpets by the German high command last night.

A communique said survivors of the Sevastopol garrison, driven by Nazi and Rumanian forces from that "most powerful land and sea fortress in the world," at noon yesterday, faced annihilation on the Khersones peninsula, which

ASSAULT: Allied Planes Hit Jap Bases on 2,500 Mile Front

(By International News Service)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Australia — Fanning out on a line more than 2,500 miles long, from Celebes to the Solomon islands, the Allied air force carried out raids on six Japanese bases north of Australia, General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today. The combined raid constituted the heaviest assault in the United Nations program of softening up the enemy's strongholds in preparation for an early offensive to drive the Japanese from the islands fringing Australia.

The targets ranged from Kendari on the southeast tip of Celebes to Tulagi on Florida Island in the Solomon group. Intervening enemy bases which were attacked and heavily damaged included Dili, on Portuguese Timor, Lae and Salamaua on New Guinea, and Bougainville in the Solomon islands.

There was no hint of the number of planes participating in the attacks, and generally heavy weather over the area prevented accurate observation of the damage done, but the communique described the missions as "successful."

In nearly every instance the enemy was taken by surprise and offered little resistance. Coming on the heels of Sunday night's surprise commando raid on Salamaua the far-flung attacks were regarded as highly significant, and an indication that Gen. MacArthur would increase the intensity and range of the "softening up" attacks on enemy bases.

(A London report broadcast by the BBC said long-range bombers are now being flown into Australia non-stop from American bases. Some of the ferried bombers see action against the Japa-

COUNTY AHEAD, AREA BEHIND IN WAR BOND SALE

Eliot Predicts Sales Here Are Expected To Be Near Quota of $387,000 For Month.

Richland county is doing a better job of buying war bonds and stamps than other counties in the fourth federal reserve district, which covers Ohio and parts of Kentucky, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The federal reserve bank in Cleveland, issuing its monthly business survey for the district, reported that war bond sales are below quota in the area. Through June 27, the report stated, the sale failed to equal the total reported in May.

"With June quotas for the entire country one-third higher than those of May," the report stated, "it would appear that the June goal was not being attained locally. Sales of war savings bonds in June up to the 27th of the month totaled $39,500,000, compared with $44,814,000 in all of May."

Final reports covering Richland county's sale of bonds in June have not yet been received, but Paul M. Eliot, county bond sale chairman, estimated that the total will come close to the quota of $387,000 for the month.

"On the basis of May results," Eliot said, "it appears that we will come very close to our quota this month. Incomplete returns already show more than $300,000 in sales during June."

The quota for the month was $387,600. The May quota was $295,200, and the actual result that month was $345,000. As a result of Richland county's performance to date, the July quota was set at $587,000—a greater percentage of increase than the national average.

The county started a new month of bond and stamp purchases yesterday with a noisy "Whiteout" celebration. Eliot reported the sale in retail stores yesterday as "very favorable." The retail establishments will continue selling bonds and stamps all month under an intensified campaign and with a goal of war savings sales amounting to four per cent of their volume for the month.

As for retail trade, the federal reserve review stated:

"In the four weeks ended June 20 dollar sales of reporting fourth district department stores were only fractionally larger than those of last year. Taking into account the general rise in prices during the past 12 months, physical volume of trade has declined below year-ago levels."

That department stores are well stocked was shown by the bank's report that "at the present time total store inventories are more than twice as large as they were in January, 1941," and even when "allowance is made for seasonal differences, the increase is 89 per cent."

Asks $1-a-Day Boost In 'Little Steel'

Stating that the union was seeking to correct a past abuse, Philip Murray (standing) president of the United Steel Workers and the CIO, opens the United Steel Workers' plea for a $1 a day wage increase and union security. He told members of the war labor board that "if the disparity and inequality which now prevails for steelworkers is eliminated, wages can thereafter be stabilized for the industry. The hearing was held in Washington.

YOUNG DOCTOR USES MOISTURE TO HEAL BURNS

Discovers Warm Moist Air Superior to Tannic Acid Treatment.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—Dr. Sidney Smith, jr., scientific prize winner as an undergraduate for his discovery of sugar rod "darning eggs" for sewing torn blood vessels, has revealed a new treatment for serious burns.

In a thesis for a master's degree, the Rush Medical College graduate recommends a warm, moist air treatment—"air ointment"—instead of the common chemicals now used for serious burns.

Smith has been engaged in research at the University of Chicago for the past two years. Two years ago, as a junior, he won the Harry Ginsburg Memorial prize for inventing the sugar-rod "darning egg."

He solved the knotty problem of sewing the delicate tissue of injured blood vessels by the use of sugar rods to hold the tiny tubes firm during the operation. The rods, inserted into the torn ends of the blood vessel to be patched, dissolve in the blood stream after the severed edges of the tube are stitched.

Smith's new theory for the treatment of burns resulted from his recent experiments with rats in which he discovered that warm moist air proved superior to application of tanic acid and butesin picrate ointment.

Neither tannic acid nor butesin picrate ointment possess specific accelerative healing action on the basis of experiments, Smith reported. It seems their main function is to provide an insoluble coagulant over the wound, he added.

"Infection under the coagulant produced by tannic acid has been reported many times and constitutes the chief objection to its use as a medicine," Smith asserted.

Four weeks of experiments with rats showed that 70 to 82 per cent of the animals given the "air ointment" were healed compared to 63 per cent given the butesin picrate and only 48 per cent given the tannic acid. Combination of the "air ointment" with either of the other agents did not improve the rate of healing.

Smith tested his new method by enclosing the burned surface in a humidity chamber which was kept at 90 degrees Fahrenheit. He found that debris of the wound softened and sloughed off within five days, accelerating the healing action.

Alkalinity of tissue is regarded as important in promoting infection, and dryness brings about alkalinity, Smith pointed out. He explained that by preventing dryness, his moist air treatment avoids the "chief factor delaying wound healing."

CRESTLINE YOUTH RECEIVES NAVY AIR CORPS COMMISSION

Receiving the coveted cold wings and commission as an ensign in the Naval Reserve Air Corps, Robert F. Teeter, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Teeter, of 711 North Seltzer street, Crestline, yesterday was graduated from the United States Naval Air base at Corpus Christi, Texas.

He is expected home this week on 15-day leave. He is to report at the end of that time to the Naval base at San Diego, Calif., where he will receive transition training for fleet duty.

ENSIGN R. F. TEETER

Born and raised in Crestline, Robert graduated from Crestline high school in 1937 and attended Ohio Northern and Miami universities. He enlisted in the Naval Air Corps, reporting at Kansas City, Kas., Aug. 20, 1941, for preliminary training. He received instruction in dive bombing and other advanced training at Corpus Christi.

His father is assistant postmaster of Crestline. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Reinhart, of Spring Mill, and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Teeter, residing in Monroe township, Richland county.

nese less than a week after they leave the United States, the announcer declared.)

This evidence of increased Allied airpower, coupled with the recent arrival of an expeditionary force of American marines, fully equipped, was generally regarded as a sign that an early offensive may be launched against the Japanese invaders to drive them from their strongholds threatening Australia.

Meantime, while the Allied air force has steadily pounded Japanese bases, the enemy has been strangely inactive. The most recent raids on Port Moresby and Darwin, United Nations advanced bases, have been weak and ineffective.

Gen. MacArthur's campaign of attrition against the enemy appears to be getting results. In the latest attacks on the enemy, airfields and supply depots were the chief targets.

The airdromes at Kendari and Dilli were blasted in a surprise attack and a number of planes destroyed on the ground. Great fires were started in the port areas. Dilli is an important enemy supply base and the Allied bombers reported a number of fires were left blazing in the dock area.

Unfavorable weather limiting observation forced the Allied planes to attack from low levels in the New Guinea raids. At Lae the targets were the police barracks, the dispersal area and shipping. The isthmus area at Salamaua received a heavy pounding. Large fires were started near the jetty and were followed by explosions. The enemy anti-aircraft fire was quickly silenced.

The attacks on Bougainville and Tulagi were described as light.

ROUND UP 250 ENEMY ALIENS

Federal Agents Link Altoona Arrests With Plot to Destroy Horseshoe Curve.

(By United Press)

ALTOONA, Pa.—Federal authorities today investigated the back-ground of approximately 250 enemy aliens rounded up by the FBI on presidential warrants apparently connected with a plot to destroy the famous horse-shoe curve on the Pennsylvania railroad near here.

John F. Sears, federal bureau of investigation agent in charge of the Philadelphia district, indicated the arrests were connected with revelation last week-end that eight alleged saboteurs who were captured had planned to dynamite the curve where the Pennsylvania's war-laden main line reverses its direction in a tight bend, seven miles west of Altoona.

All residents of Altoona, the aliens were suspected of violating presidential proclamations covering enemy nationals in this country, according to Sears.

It was expected that some of those picked up would be released today after examination. They would not reveal how much contraband equipment was confiscated, although a number of guns and cameras were brought in with aliens by arresting officers.

MEDICAL CORPS STREAMLINED

Army's Medical Units Have Made Rapid Changes Since Last War.

(By United Press)

CAMP CLAIBORNE, La.—The difference between the medical care tendered today's private and that given the 1918 doughboy is about the difference between tank fighting and trench warfare.

One thing the doughboy never saw was a provision for plastic surgery on soldiers transported rapidly from the battlefield to "rear installations," behind the lines.

In this work the dental officer deserts his usual garrison jobs of pulling and filling teeth and doubles as an expert in facial reconstruction. He works under combat conditions with the regular surgeons as an assistant confined to the lower jaw, where many disfiguring injuries occur.

Many a casualty who, 25, years ago, would have been mained for life will return from this war little the worse for his experience, army surgeons believe. The serious case has a better chance of reaching the rear hospital alive.

A "blood bank" system has been developed to minimize fatalities from loss of blood, which with shock, causes more deaths in battle than the actual destruction of physical tissue by a projectile.

Each soldier is tested for blood type. Thes result is stamped on his records and on his metal identification tag.

In the first World war technicians and doctors close to the lines drained their own blood when necessary. Now the serum—prepared in advance and stored in regrigerators—can be removed from the bank and transfusions given under combat conditions and within the zone of fire.

About the only echo from the doughboy days is the 7 a. m. "sick lame and lazy" call.

LOWE BROTHERS HIGH STANDARD PRIMER makes the complete painting job last longer because it holds and seals due to controlled penetration. It minimizes the danger of peeling, scaling and cracking. Being practically non-absorbent it affords "tooth" or "grip" for the following coat. It seals all surfaces and is ideal—

FOR BOTH NEW WORK AND REPAINTING

1. It "holds fast" and seals the various surfaces to be painted—both new work and repainting.
2. Controlled penetration defeats absorption and makes a perfect foundation for finish coat.
3. None of the oil in the second coat is absorbed by High Standard Primer.
4. There is no weakening of the oil film.
5. The danger of paint failure is minimized.

HOUSE UPHOLDS CHURCHILL IN HOUR OF PERIL

a snowstorm of papers flying through the air, and laughter and smiles which themselves were in sharp contrast to the grim canvas that Churchill had stroked with his oratory. Never since the fall of France, he said, has Britain's existence been so seriously threatened.

And his only "promise" of a turn for the better in Egypt was his calm observation that the battle now being waged by the British Eighth army under General Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck "is not in any way decided."

Considerable reinforcements have reached and "are approaching" Auchinleck's forces, he said.

The main points of Churchill's long and frequently heavily pessimestic defense of his war stewardship follow:

1—At any moment, news of "grave importance" may come from Egypt.

2—Britain's hopes and prospects at the moment are blacker than at any time since the fall of France.

3—The night before Tobruk fell. Gen. Auchinleck advised London that the town was adequately garrisoned and supplied for a 90-day siege.

4—In the course of a single day, Britain's mechanized force in Libya was whittled down from 300 tanks to 70.

5—Despite the huge quantities of men and materiel dispatched to Libya and other fronts, Britain found it possible to ship the staggering number of 2,000 tanks to Soviet Russia.

6—The Royal Air Force offensive against Germany is "taking a strain off Russia" and is reducing Hitler's production of submarines and other weapons.

Churchill put the seal of official confirmation upon what everyone else in Britain and the United States had suspected—that the loss of Tobruk overnight was a development anticipated by no one.

He told of how the shocking news was brought to him in President Roosevelt's study at the White House.

"On Sunday, June 21, when I went to President Roosevelt's room," he said, "I was greatly shocked by the report that Tobruk had fallen.

"I found it difficult to believe.

"I hope the house will realize what a bitter pang it was to me."

It was obvious to parliamentary observers that Churchill, defending his policies in the face of a non-confidence motion lodged by a member of his own conservative party, was speaking under stress of great emotion.

He, like his hearers, appeared to be completely mystified if not staggered by the sudden conquest of Tobruk, a garrison that no one previous occasion in 1940-1941 had held out under siege for nearly eight months although cut off from all supplies and reinforcements except by Sea.

Churchill told of his reaction to headlines in American newspapers reading "Churchill returns to supreme political crisis" and to dispatches which he said "distorted" the true political situation.

"Such an atmosphere," he said, "naturally was injurious to a British representative engaged in negotiating the great matters of state upon which the larger issues of the war depend.

"But in this case, I believe the bonds of comradship between all men at the top were actually strengthened.

"Only unshakeable confidence in the ties binding me to the mass of the British people upheld me through those days of trial. . . .

"I naturally explained to my hosts that those who are voluble in parliament in no way represent the commons, just as a small handful of correspondents who pour out damaging utterances regarding our affairs in the United States and Australia in no way represent the honorable profession of journalism."

The prime minister said his conversations with President Roosevelt "concerned only the movement of troops, ships and aircraft and the measures to be taken to combat losses at sea and more than replace sunken tonnage."

"Secrecy," he said, "forbids details of my conversations.

"But I can say that the two English-speaking nations have never been closer together. There has never been a more earnest desire between the Allies to engage the enemy or a more whole-hearted resolve to run all risks and sacrifices to wage war with rigor and carry it out to a successful conclusion."

The United States, Churchill said, is building in 1942 four times as much tonnage as Great Britain will build, while in 1943 the American ship production will be "eight to ten times" more than that of this country.

Discussing the Libyan campaign in some detail, Churchill disclosed the appalling losses suffered by the British.

"On the morning of June 13," he said, "we had 300 tanks in action.

"By nightfall, there were no more than 70, excluding light tanks, without corresponding loss by the enemy."

At the opening of the Libyan battle which resulted in Tobruk's fall, Britain had 100,000 men while the enemy had 90,000, of which 50,000 were German.

"Britain had a 7 to 5 superiority in numbers of tanks and a nearly 8 to 5 superiority in artillery, including the latest 55-pounder howitzer," Churchill said.

"Throughout we enjoyed and still enjoy air superiority.

"The battle swayed with virtually corresponding losses until June 13."

On that date, however, Britain's tank strength was mysteriously cut from 300 to 70.

"It is for the house to decide," Churchill said, "whether these facts resulted from faulty central direction of the war or from the terrible hazards and unforeseeable accidents of battle."

ARGUE FAIR'S FUTURE FRIDAY

(saving tires and gas) is to be achieved through voluntary cooperation." The reply was from H. F. McCarthy, director of traffic movement.

There is a chance that a one-day junior fair may be held in Richland county if the scheduled three-day show is called off Friday night. The junior fair would give 4-H clubs and Future Farmer members a place to display their projects and at the same time reduce the trips farm residents would make to Mansfield, County Agent George B. Ganyard pointed out.

juts into the Black sea southwest of the city and its cliff-lined harbor.

Axis battle flags were declared to have been hoisted over Sevastopol "after a 25 days' hard fight."

(The Russian government stated last midnight that the enemy—reported 15 divisions strong—"succeeded in advancing a little" in fierce hand to hand combat, but the fall of the city was not conceded.)

German dive-bombers left docks and warehouses along the waterfront burning fiercely and shrouded in smoke, it was announced.

The Berlin radio said "a very heavy mortar and a very heavy and long-barreled railway gun" (which the Russians report to have a 24-inch bore) were credited with part of "the quick success of the operations." DNB declared its shells blasted even the thickest concrete walls into dust.

Reds Says Fight Still Rages At Sevastopol

MOSCOW—(AP)—The Red army reported at noon today that bitter fighting was continuing in Sevastopol and dispatches telegraphed yesterday to the army newspaper Red Star said German assault troops had carried the battle into the city itself.

Red Star's accounts pictured heavily superior numbers of Nazi forces rolling slowly forward against staunch defenders of the Crimean base.

The situation in the last Soviet stronghold in the Crimea was described as "extremely tense and difficult."

(Two successive Russian communiques have ignored German claims of having captured Sevastopol.)

The latest information came in dispatches from Sevastopol yesterday to the army newspaper, Red Star.

"The enemy continues to move forward slowly to the outskirts of the city in a number of sectors" Red Star's correspondent telegraphed.

"In some places the enemy succeeded in carrying the battle directly into Sevastopol city."

Eskimo Women Do Their Part In U. S. War Effort

FAIRBANKS, Alaska—(AP)—Eskimo women in scores of Arctic coastline villages are sewing skin shirts for soldiers as part of the war effort.

Soldiers serving in Alaska and other cold climes need warm clothing, and the Quartermaster Corps has arranged to buy 5,000 pairs of mukluks (skin boots) as well as hundreds of parkas (fur-lined outer garments), fur-lined pants, caps and mittens.

Eskimo men hunt polar bear, wolves and seal and slaughter reindeer for prime skins. The skins are taken to Nome and sold to the Skin Sewers' association, a cooperative organized by 25 native women and one man and already utilizing the services of more than 300 native women and many of their children.

After the skins are tanned and cut, the work is sent to the native villages There the women sew the boots and other garments, using reindeer sinew for thread.

It's slow work, but precise and thorough, army men say.

NEGRO EXECUTED

RICHMOND, Va—(U.P.)—Odell Waller, negro sharecropper whose unsuccessful two-year fight to escape the electric chair stirred thousands over the nation to ask for clemency in his case, was electrocuted at state prison today for the murder of his white landlord in June, 1940.

Waller was pronounced dead at 8:49 a. m. (EWT) only a few minutes after he was strapped in the chair.

MEETS TODAY

Council Finance Committee To Go Over 1943 Budget.

City council's finance committee and administration leaders will meet today at 8 p. m. in the municipal building to examine the city's proposed budget for 1943, which totals $339,103.

Russell D. Porch, chairman of the finance committee, today gave no indication as to whether additions or reductions would be made.

The administration announced the tentative budget last Friday. Although $15,000 was lopped off the relief fund and another $6,000 off the fire and police signal system fund, the proposed budget is only $5,000 less than the budget request for 1942.

WARNS DEALERS

Ohio Scrap Rubber Committee Hits 'Chiseling'.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Ohio scrap rubber committee of the petroleum industry war council warned gasoline dealers today not to sell scrap rubber or tires to junk dealers in quest of prime grades of rubber.

"The rubber turned in at filling stations, whether purchased at one cent a pound or donated, is in a sense the property of the government," said Eric V. Weber, committee chairman, who telegraphed all county scrap rubber committees to guard against chiseling.

One claim for $300 damages boosted Richland county sheep claims to $499 in June, one of the highests monthly totals in recent years, county commissioners figures showed today.

The $300 claim was submitted by Mrs. Verna Smith, Troy township, who lost a number of sheep when dogs invaded her flock. It was the second consecutive month that a single claim of $300 or more was filed with commissioners.

Other June claims which were approved by commissioners were: N. H. Banks, $14; George W. Barnhill, $51; W. J. Bly, $56; Walter Kirkwood, $30; F. C. Reynolds, $36; D. C. Tucker, $6; and Frank Zwilling, $9.

Most of the losses were the result of attacks on sheep by stray dogs. Claims are paid from tag funds.

BRITISH HALT ROMMEL DRIVE ON ALEXANDRIA

Axis Columns Repulsed as Fierce Battle For Egypt Continues.

The point which the British have chosen for their stand is the best between the Egyptian border and the Nile valley from a defensive point of view, for the salt wastes of the Qattara depression, angling up from the south, reduce to its narrowest the coastal area suitable for mechanized operations.

Auchinleck apparently had managed to save a large proportion of his remaining armored strength in the long retreat across the desert.

Much obviously depended now on his ability to manipulate his mechanized units to prevent Rommel from executing a favorite German maneuver—a smashing blow at a concentrated enemy force.

Much also depended on the Nazi chieftain's ability to maintain his extended lines of communication, stretched almost to the breaking point by a swift advance that has covered some 305 miles in the 10 days since his armies captured Tobruk—now his nearest port of supply.

Berlin Claims Axis 'Pursuit' In Egypt

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts) —(AP)— The German army reported today that Axis forces were pursuing a British retreat toward the Nile delta after having broken through the defenders' El Alamein position 65 miles west of Alexandria.

This was the German communique version of the fighting by land in North Africa:

"In Egypt, German and Italian divisions, supported by strong dive bomber formations, have broken through the El Alamein position after bitter fighting. They are pursuing the beaten British forces which are retreating towards the Nile delta."

German bomber and destroyer planes, DNB said, "effectively attacked" Haifa, Palestine harbor, and dropped pamphlets over Damascus, in Syria.

The German communique announced also "great devastation and fires among aircraft on the ground and on airfield installations" at Lucca, on the British Mediterranean island of Malta as a result of new German air operations.

Despite the high command's report of a break-through 70 miles from Alexandria in the battle of Egypt, Berlin military quarters are not of the opinion that Egypt will now drop easily into the hands of German and Italian forces, the Transocean news agency said.

"It is rather expected that in view of the importance attached to the positions hitherto held by the British that they will put up a fierce fight," the agency dispatch continued

'It is not believed in these quarters that the British fleet has steamed off to the Red Sea as some reports would have it.

"British warships have probably departed from Alexandria but this move is not interpreted in Berlin military circles as proof that they have also left the Mediterranean or that they intended doing so for the time being, since the fleet is an almost indispensable factor for England in the present defense fighting for British positions in Egypt."

Reports Martial Law Throughout Egypt

LONDON—(INS)—The Rome radio, according to the Exchange Telegraph company, today broadcast a dispatch from Ankara reporting that martial law had been declared throughout Egypt.

Martial law, according to the Italian station, was instituted by the British Tuesday.

The British army was said to have taken over all railways and issued an order to all persons in Alexandria to stay put.

Barricades were reported to have been erected along the Alexandria to Cairo highway..

NEW YORK FACES GASLESS FOURTH

City Gets Gasoline Quota, But It's Sold Out Already.

NEW YORK—(INS)—New York City's gasoline quota for the first 10 days of July is in—and apparently out! Most of the service stations in the city were "gassed-up" yesterday, but lines of waiting cars—in some cases four blocks long—soon dried up the pumps and even "X" card holders today were again beholding "sorry, no gas," signs.

From all appearances the Fourth of July week-end will be a gasless one in the metropolitan area.

WILL EXTEND BLACKOUT

Miss Eggert said that she had stepped out of her shop for a few minutes and found the man there upon her return. She said that the young man left after telling her he intended to bring his wife back to pick out a hat.

Police said that the doors to the Smart Studio and the Kay shop had been forced and that $29 had been removed from a cash register in the studio office. Nothing was reported missing from the Kay shop or the Eggert shop.

The theft from the Wheatrow street home was reported by Means this morning. He told police that a pair of overalls in which he had left a wallet containing $29 had been taken from his bedroom during the night. Means reported that the overalls and the empty wallet were found on his front porch this morning.

George Wolfe, 765 Andover road, told police that his grocery store at 284 Cline avenue had been entered but that nothing was missing.

Czech Spokesman Says 141 Killed By Nazi Gestapo.

LONDON —(AP)— A spokesman for the Czech government in exile said today that the Vichy radio had reported 141 more executions by the German gestapo in Czecho-Slovakia.

These, he declared, were in addition to 115 persons reported by the Vichy radio yesterday as sentenced to death. Czechs here estimated that executions in Czecho-Slovakia since the assassination of Reinhard Heydrich had risen above 1,000.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JULY 2, 1942.

Help conserve the rubber used for erasers on pencils by making fewer mistakes.

No reason why a pleasant day shouldn't be enjoyed to the fullest extent, even in wartime.

The fifteen articles that may be rationed soon are not specifically mentioned—so the only thing left for hoarders is to buy a lot of everything.

State Fireworks Ban Effective

HAD YOU stopped to think that we are within two days of the Fourth of July and that there has been none of the noisy premature "celebrating" common to the approach of this holiday as far back as you can remember?

This is because the state law against the sale of fireworks for other than licensed displays, under competent supervision, is now in effect and the fly-by-night roadside stands at which fireworks were sold just outside city limits can no longer be operated.

For the past several years Mansfield, like many other Ohio cities, has had an ordinance forbidding the sale and use of fireworks inside the corporation but this did not prevent thoughtless children and immature adults from smuggling explosives into the city from conveniently located rural stands.

States that have rigidly enforced laws against indiscriminate use of fireworks have experienced a considerable decline in Fourth of July accidents due to explosives, with steady reduction in the number of persons killed, blinded or maimed. Ohioans can take pride in noting that our state has joined in this movement toward more sensible observance of Independence day.

In Mansfield the Public Parks association is again sponsoring an afternoon and evening community celebration at the Richland county fairground, with attractive programs planned, and concluding, as usual, with an elaborate fireworks display just after nightfall. In past years these events have been well-attended and additional thousands have had opportunity to witness the exhibition of fireworks from vantage points in other parts of the city. There will be no admission charge to the fairground and it is announced that proceeds from concessions will be invested in War Savings bonds, as the nucleus of a fund for a post-war victory celebration.

Would Churches Surrender To Axis?

WAR is so entirely out of accord with religious teachings that difficulties are naturally being encountered by church groups in adapting ideals to realities.

It must be considered unlikely that the leaders of any sound thinking religious organization would vote to turn the United States over to the Axis powers—Germany, Italy and Japan—without armed resistance, yet that, in effect, is what they indicate by encouragement of "conscientious objectors" and by withholding full co-operation with the national war effort.

Action of Methodists at their Northeast Ohio conference, held at Lakeside this week, was typical of the middle-of-the-road course which a number of Protestant denominations are attempting to follow.

This is noted in the sympathetic attitude toward conscientious objectors, whom they regard as "helped to their present position by church teachings."

It was voted that "the church must not promote war programs, such as bond sales, recruiting, and permitting use of its buildings for war purposes . . ."

Objection was also made to "removal of American citizens of Japanese ancestry from the west coast," this being deemed a denial of their rights as citizens.

All of these pronouncements savor of the extreme of pacifism which was once interpreted by a peace meeting speaker in Mansfield as meaning a belief that "it is all right to be killed, but not to kill."

If it is by such an attitude that American church leadership wishes to be judged, in connection with the present national war effort against barbarism and irreligion, it will be regretted that there has been such a far departure from the militant spirit of the earlier churches, when causes deemed righteous were fought for, instead of being abandoned because of opposition.

It is hoped, and believed, that pacifistic expressions of such church leadership do not represent widespread attitude of laymen in various of these groups, else the desperate struggle for preservation of American liberties—including religious freedom—might be seriously hampered.

Absent Voting Made Easier

ACTION by Secretary of State John E. Sweeney to simplify the process of absent voting by Ohioans in the armed forces is to be commended.

Heretofore the red tape involved in casting an absentee vote has been such as to prevent many service men from voting, but under Mr. Sweeney's plan it will only be necessary for each voter to secure an application card, to be filled out and sent to his own board of elections, which would then send ballots, to be marked and returned.

An effort will be made to send application cards to all Ohio members of the armed forces in camps and forts in the United States. Relatives can also secure cards to send to soldiers, sailors and marines stationed elsewhere.

It is right that all men absent from home in the service of their country should be given opportunity to vote at the November election and whatever can be done to reduce difficulties is proper procedure.

Those Yugoslav Helpers

DRAJA MIHAILOVIC, leader of the Yugoslav guerrilla forces, is said to have now 200,000 men under his command. The services they are performing in sabotaging German communications and supplies, picking off isolated units, and damaging German morale generally, are invaluable. Certainly the German forces which are thus compelled to stay on guard, are as many as those obeying Mihailovic. Probably more, because no one can tell where he will strike next, and the Nazis have to be prepared for everything.

These are all soldiers whom, were there no Yugoslav rebels, Hitler would gladly use on the Russian front. There they might well turn the scale.

When the job is done, Mihailovic and his guerrillas will rank high on the list of those who helped win the victory.

HERE'S HOW PEACE TERMS WILL BE WRITTEN

Good Work By Rockefeller Group

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

OMISSION of Nelson Rockefeller's Office of Co-ordination of Inter-American Affairs from inclusion in the consolidation of Uncle Sam's other war publicity agencies, as subdivisions of Elmer Davis' Office of War Information appears, after all, not to have been a mere oversight on President Roosevelt's part.

Nelson Rockefeller

The president, it seems, regards Pan-American publicity as more of a specialty than general publicity, for our own benefit and for that of our anti-Axis associates other than our western hemispherical neighbors to the south of us. That Director Rockefeller's organization has been handling it very capably is recognized and the notion evidently was that advice from sources less familiar with that part of the world's psychology would be likely to do more harm than good.

It may be sound reasoning, too. Our people are pretty well acquainted with Europe. Plenty of news writers and broadcasters, who know how to express themselves interestingly and acceptably to folk over there, are available in the United States.

Orientals are more of a puzzle to us. Still, we realize that they ARE a puzzle and take pains to be tactful toward 'em, until we've solved 'em, as such.

We're Learning.

Nearly all of us hitherto have taken it for granted, though, that Latin Americans are the same blunt, outspoken sort of individuals that we are ourselves, and while they're beginning to like us moderately of late, it decidedly is a recent development. No longer ago than the time of the last war, handling Yankee publicity in their midst was extremely ticklish business, to avoid making 'em sore with perfectly well meant stuff.

Having lived among 'em for several years before World Conflict No. 1 involved us, I'd learned their peculiarities quite thoroughly, and, being assigned from Washington to get our propaganda into their press, I got on with them very harmoniously, but I had to be mightily careful to modify a lot of the dope I received from home, too crassly expressed for Latin-American consumption.

You have, in short, to be polite to be friends with those chaps. Well, I was, and, almost alone among my countrymen's journalistic representatives, I propagandized 'em as pleasantly as I could have asked.

They could scarcely believe it to be treated with what they considered civility by a newspaperman from north of the Rio Grande.

We were less and less popular on up until the New Deal regime and the Good Neighborly era, which gradually got in its work. Even that took quite awhile, taking effect.

Today Nelson Rockefeller's outfit has things on a middling satisfactory basis, as between ourselves and the southern republics. Part of them are our actual allies against the Axis. The rest have at least broken diplomatic relations with the Axis group, Argentina and Chile alone excepted — and THEY'RE showing signs of lining up with the United States.

It was a fine piece of missionarying.

Conversion.

It isn't surprising that Britain, Russia, China and the Germanly overrun countries are on our side. It's automatic for THEM to have joined us, but the Latin Americans had to be WON by us—converted, so to speak, since not so far back.

The Rockefeller group certainly have done their fair share of the converting. It not only is significant in the existing war situation. It promises also to tie the Pan Americans up permanently in peace-times to come—into a more or less united hemisphere, maybe.

No wonder there's an inclination to keep it specializing on the job.

Draft for Defense

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I USED to be an advertising writer before I became a columnist and every now and then the old urge to poosh things around comes over me. Today I've got a hunch for Big Business—a hunch that would return the finest dividends Big Business has ever known. It's about these kids of ours, millions of American kids who are drifting through their 'teen years without any practical aim.

Going up and down this land I meet these kids. Great youngsters! Fine as they come. Huskiest crop we've ever bred. Ambitious, longing to make something of their future; fine looking, charming, hep to the answers. But try and get them down to brass tacks and what's the score?

THE SCORE? A GOOSE EGG!

Yes, they've gone to school. Graduated, most of them. Fussed around with chores and jobs. Lolled around the house playing records . . . dancing at some juke joint . . . waiting for the vague days when they'll be drafted or married.

But in the meantime what is their actual performance? Nil! Not one in a thousand of the girls can cook or sew or manage a house. Nor is equipped to be an adequate typist in any office. The boys bank a little higher. Boys like machines, understand them more quickly. But none of them is thoroughly trained in radio or map-making or any other defense preparation work.

Yes, many of them had such courses in their high schools. But they're not compulsory courses. They can take them or leave them—get their requisite credits through other "snap courses" . . . biology . . . botany . . . or some other subject which is equally irrelevant to our modern need. As an example, there was a tough tangle recently in one of our finest San Francisco schools, between mothers and teachers, because the principal would not allow or give time or credit for bridge-playing as part of the curriculum!

What's the answer? That's plain:

The government should draft all boys and girls of high school age. They need not and should not go to the front. But they should be compelled to choose certain practical, elemental subjects such as sewing and cooking for the girls, radio and shop for the boys. And these courses should not only be compulsory for every high school student but they should be tough enough to leave an impression on their plastic minds and make them realize that America needs real workers, not phoney fronts.

The government has taken one step toward this in requiring that all 18-year-olds register, but that doesn't mean they will be drafted for the army or are fit to be. Preparation for this war should begin long before that, in the home and the high school, in practical, everyday life and service. So where does Big Business come in?

Just there, in taking up the slack where both school and home fail . . . in giving classes which will snap these youngsters out of their thumb-sucking dreams and make them ready for their adult status.

Not all stores can do this. But most of our big department stores can supply instructors in domestic science, in radio work, in making planes, in studying guns. Let the stores provide the instruction, the materials at a minimum price. And let them be real courses, not phonies — courses which comply with defense requirements wherever possible.

How'll you start it? Any good saleswoman or salesman can tell you a hundred ways how to start the ball rolling. The main thing is to get there and get there first. Be the first in your field. Make your store a home as well as a market, a place which the youngsters will remember with gratitude and affection when they become citizens. And don't be piggy. If you go in for domestic science, let the other fellow train a gunner.

Will the kids come?

JUST ASK THEM!

Health And Diet

Health Questions Are Answered.

—By DR. CLENDENING

L. G.:—What is the cause of constant sneezing during the day and at all seasons of the year?

Answer: Nasal infection either of the sinus or the nasal mucous membrane or perennial allergy from the presence of animals or house dust. I would suspect pet canaries, parrots, rabbits, cats, dogs or horses in that order; possibly a pillow stuffed with rabbit hair is the cause.

F. S.:—If a person has tuberculosis are deep breathing exercises harmful?

Answer: Yes. One of the most important principles of treatment in tuberculosis is rest, especially reduction in the number of inspirations. Deep breathing simply tends to spread the infection from one part of the lung to the other.

R. V. H.:—Will you please tell me whether grapefruit contains quinine?

Answer: No. The bitterness is due to certain of the organic acids that are present in nearly all fruits.

A. H. M.:—Is coffee harmful to people who suffer from asthma?

Answer: Not unless the asthma is due to sensitivity to coffee, which is very unusual.

B. H.:—Please give the food value of veal liver. Is one pound per week, small portions each day, all right for a five-year-old child?

Answer: Veal liver contains about 560 calories per pound. The amount you mention is probably good for a child of that age.

Absolute Defeat of Nazi Germany Japan and Italy Seen Necessary

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—The war news continues to be mixed—a welcome change because there was a mighty long time when nearly all of it was bad. But there is one thought which needs only to be suggested to be encouraging. This is a thought, incidentally, which comes from diplomats here, highly astute gentlemen whose needs seldom run away with their hearts.

The suggestion which this writer heard in a group of diplomats the other day is this:

"What do you imagine the Germans, the Japanese and the Italians are thinking about, as they face the future?"

Naturally, a German, or a Jap, or an Italian might retort: "What do you imagine the Americans, and the British, and the Chinese are thinking about as THEY face the future?"

Well, we cannot speak for the others, but it is pretty well known what the Americans are thinking when they assume a prophetic role.

There is not a doubt anywhere in this land, that sooner or later we are going to win this war. On the contrary President Roosevelt has found it necessary to caution against too much optimism.

* * *

ONE can find many differences of opinion as to what should be done to avoid a repetition of the World war, but no difference at all as to the conditions which must exist when fighting stops. Those conditions are that Germany, Japan and Italy must be thoroughly beaten.

There are a few, perhaps, who think it will not be necessary to make the beating of Italy so very thorough, but there is no division of opinion about Germany and Japan. The Nipponese, most Americans seem to think, must be forced to disgorge not only their conquests in this war, but these of previous wars and aggrandisements—for example Formosa and Korea.

What do we imagine the Germans and Japs are thinking? We needn't worry about the Italians. We KNOW they wish the war was over, and know in their hearts that a defeat for Germany probably would be better for them than a victory for their present masters.

* * *

BUT MOST of the Germans know a great deal more than the Nazi radio tells them. Interviews by American correspondents with German prisoners in Russia show this, and there are other sources of information which cannot be revealed.

They know, very shortly after official announcements in London and Washington, what has been announced. They know that London holds back bad news for a few days, and Washington up to two months, but that eventually the truth is given out. Even more bitterly, they know something about their own casualty lists — not as to the actual figures, save a very few of them, but they do know that the totals must be terrific because they know so many persons whose husbands, brothers, sons and fathers have been killed.

They know more about the bombings of Cologne, Essen, etc., than even the peoples of the United Nations. They have seen the air power against them rise from hopeless inferiority to superiority, and they know that the preponderance of air power against them is on the rise and will continue.

It is knowledge that sooner or later the Nazis will collapse.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The gates of the wartime heavens are now ajar for aviation's "old-timers" and for those who have been told scores of times that they are "too fat to fly."

If you are an "old man" in your middle thirties; if you wear specs or squint a little; if you just can't quite get by the air corps physicals, but still have a yen to kick a rudder bar for Uncle Sam, the Civil Aeronautics Administration has the answer to your problem.

Under the direction of Acting Administrator C. I. Stanton, the CAA is launching a pilot training program that dwarfs all past efforts along this line. The sky's the limit, because the CAA's 650 flying schools, can handle approximately 180,000 student pilots a year—almost six times its present turnout.

* * *

IN FLYING slanguage, these men will "do their fighting sitting down" but they are no less important to the Army and Navy and winning of the war than the combat pilots who sink the ships and bomb the cities of the Axis. AND they'll have one great advantage over the heroes of the flying lines when this war is over. They'll be experienced in the kind of flying that's going to make post-war peacetime aviation a miracle of transportation.

Pilots trained under the program, whether they start from a taxi stand or pick up where their amateur aviation left off (trainees without previous experience may get from 40 to 48 weeks of training; advanced pilots may have to take only eight weeks) will become members of the Air Force Reserve Corps. They will be subject to call any time. They will be assigned to one of four services, for any of which they may express a preference.

* * *

THESE are:

(1) Instructors—the potential bottleneck in mass production of pilots. The civilian contract flying schools (contracts by the Army for basic training) need all the instructors they can get.

(2) Glider Pilots — something brand new. They may fly freight or relief supplies to beleaguered bands. It's a field that forward-looking airmen say will be one of the most fertile after the war.

(3) Service and liaison Pilots—they will fly the Army mail, ferry planes, tow targets and gliders, and chauffeur the brass hats.

(4) Airline co-pilots—which is self-explanatory. They'll fly the commercial lines, now virtually controlled by Army and Navy priority demands.

The CAA will take any man who isn't under 18 or over 37. He'll have to pass a physical but it won't be as stiff as that for the Army and Navy combat pilots.

The Civil Air Patrol excepted, this is the first real break for the men who are barred from Army and Navy aviation but can't be happy unless they are sucking prop-wash into their lungs.

Prophecies That Flopped.

In connection with recent events we have been recalling some of the prophecies of the last three years:

That there would be no war (Senator Borah and others); that Poland could hold out for six months; that the Germans would not drive through the Low Countries to the sea because they would expose their flank; that the Maginot line was impregnable; that England would be overwhelmed after the fall of France; that England would be invaded in the spring of 1941; that the Germans couldn't get through the mountains of Serbia; that the British fleet would protect Crete; that Hitler would smash the Russian army in six weeks; that the Japanese planes couldn't get within 500 miles of Diamond Head, Hawaii; that the Maylan jungle was impenetrable; that Singapore could withstand a siege of six years; that it was too hot to fight in the North African desert this summer.

Remembering these flops, all by eminent authorities, we try as best we can to refrain from prophesying on the course of the war.—Kansas City Times.

A Farmer's Diary

Ohio Poultry Day

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

RIGHT after breakfast, friends of ours, an old farmer and his son, came along in their new car and invited my wife and me to go along to the annual Poultry Day program of Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

The day was cool, ideal for such a trip, and soon we were skimming along the hilly, scenic river road past Mohican state park, through the enterprising, beautiful village of Loudonville, past the Kidron valley and on to the city of Wooster in Wayne county—long recognized as one of the richest agricultural sections of these United States.

When we came, a considerable group of people had already gathered at one end of a four-acre chicken pasture, dotted with red and white fowls. A row of assorted types of shelters went down the center field, each with a group of chicken feeders and a waterer made of an oil barrel, mounted, with dripping spigot, above a galvanized metal trough.

Here was demonstrated how to grow chickens "on range," the simplest, most reasonable method for most farmers to use for the duration, since milk, fish oil and alfalfa meal may be entirely omitted from the feed if pullets are given access to outdoor range with sunshine and abundant tender green leaves.

Fish oils are scarce, these days, and high in price. Milk is needed for human food, for ourselves and our Allies. Alfalfa meal deteriorates in vitamins when stored. But direct from green, tender grass, sunshine and whole grain (wheat and yellow corn) chickens can grow and thrive and produce high quality eggs at the least expenditure of money and human energy.

Clover and bluegrass pasture, mowed whenever it gets more than six inches high, provides continuous, tender succulent food for fowls.

Listening to the speeches, beneath a tent among the trees, in the afternoon — after a hearty lunch provided on the grounds—I derived inspiration from studying the earnest, attentive faces of the crowd. Here were leading poultry raisers from our state—half of them women. They were learning how to meet war's challenge for more poultry and more eggs—how to store farm grains; how to control rats; what are the best sources and the values of vitamins in poultry diet; what kinds of floor litter to use; how the demand for dried eggs and dried egg products affects poultry production.

All this essential wartime information is free to every farmer and poultry raiser, as part of our American way of life. Those of you who have no kind neighbors with new tires, may get it by writing for bulletins to the state experiment station nearest you—or to U. S. Department of Agriculture.

AFL WINS IN ELECTION AT GALION PLANT

Employes at North Electric Select Local Union as Bargaining Agent.

GALION—North Electric Manufacturing company employes have voted 580 to 47, to be represented in collective bargaining by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL, Harold L. Hudson, field examiner for the Cleveland regional office of the NLRB, announced yesterday.

Hudson said that of 866 eligible employes 636 voted. Five ballots were challenged, three were blank, and one was declared void, leaving the total votes at 627.

The employes eligible to vote included those who had been employed during the payroll period ending May 31. Those who had been ill during that period and did not work or who were in military service were included in the eligibility list. Supervisors, technical and engineering employes, supervisory installers, and clerical and office help were not allowed to vote.

The election on the question of whether the employes would be represented by the union or not was ordered June 12 after a hearing by the labor board at which time the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers, a CIO union, was represented. The latter later withdrew from the election.

Ashlander Receives Rating as Bombardier at Midland Today.

ASHLAND—Louis B. Grate, 26, formerly of Ashland received his bombardier wings and commission as a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army Air corps at graduating exercises today at Midland Flying school at Midland, Texas.

Mrs. W. F. Humble of Ashland, a sister of the bombardier, has received a congratulatory letter from Brigadier General Isish Davies, commanding general of the U. S. army, in which he states that Mrs. Humble has every reason to be proud of her brother in his successful completion of this three-months training at Midland Army school, the world's largest bombardier college.

He says that this is more than a routine graduation, that requirements are very exacting and that only about 15 per cent of the aviation cadets applying for air crew training can meet the requirements and that not all of those classified complete the course.

Lieut. Grate was employed at the A. L. Garber company in Ashland before enlisting in the U. S. Army Air forces last January. He received his basic training at Maxwell Field, Alabama.

OLD FORT PITT WALLS INTACT

Fortifications Built in 1759 Unearthed By WPA Workers.

(By United Press)

PITTSBURGH—The walls of historic old Fort Pitt, built by the British in 1759, have been "frozen and preserved" since French and Indian war days National Park Service officials have found after an inspection of test diggings here.

Digging under streets and railroad yards in the busy "Point" area of Pittsburgh, WPA workers have unearthed portions of the wall of the old bastion that once was the "Gateway to the West," in accordance with plans of the Point Park commission to eventually turn the site into a park.

The findings were examined by Dr. A. R. Kelly, chief of the Archeological Division of the National Park Service, and Dr. T. Borressen, also of the NPS, expert on 18th Century fortifications, who helped restore the battlefields at Yorktown and Fort Niagara.

"I am surprised and pleased to see that the walls are in such a remarkable state of preservation," Dr. Kelly said. "It is remarkable that the Point has been so completely covered over with several feet of fill that has frozen conditions and preserved them."

Dr. Kelly said he considered the findings "highly significent" and that an inspection of the sections uncovered indicates that practically the entire fort can be excavated.

"The wall is the real goods," he declared. "It is practically as good as when laid down by the British 190-odd years ago."

The officials will report their findings to the National Park service, which has been asked to sponsor a national park at the Point, where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers merge to form the Ohio river. The park's construction would be delayed, however, until after end of the war.

THESE ARE THE FACTS
About Wartime Bus Travel

PENNSYLVANIA GREYHOUND LINES
2341 CARNEGIE AVE.
CLEVELAND OHIO

To All Wartime Travelers:

In normal years, vacation travel reaches a peak over the 4th of July week-end. This year there will be a tremendous increase -- with trips necessary to the war effort largely replacing pleasure trips. So we suggest -- don't make bus trips during this holiday, if you can avoid it.

Perhaps you have heard confusing comments and rumors about travel in general, and are wondering just how Greyhound has altered its service to meet wartime conditions -- what effect certain revisions will have on the trips you must make -- what you can do to help.

The fundamental fact is that Greyhound and other bus companies are organizing all the resources of the industry to make the most of every bit of equipment, every bit of experience -- to help win the war. Everything else is secondary. The buses' big job today is to carry selectees to examination centers, men in uniform on furloughs, war workers to jobs, civilian travelers on essential trips -- and to be ready at all times for urgent troop movements.

To accomplish this task efficiently, Greyhound has eliminated Expresses and Limiteds, many "extra sections", certain schedules that are not used by enough passengers, all unnecessary duplication of service. Full cooperation is being given to the Office of Defense Transportation in its program to conserve vital rubber.

At present there are no Government restrictions on travel by bus -- but on some occasions you may be inconvenienced, crowded or delayed. If you are, please be lenient: You can help greatly -- by traveling on mid-week days, rather than on crowded week-ends -- by avoiding rush periods and holidays -- by getting information and tickets in advance -- and by taking as little baggage as possible.

There's a big job to be done -- let's all help.

Very truly yours,

A. R. Smith

FLIER'S DIARY REVEALS STORY OF JUNGLE TREK

Notes Tell How Bomber Made Crash Landing, Natives Helped U. S. Airmen.

By PAT ROBINSON
(INS Staff Correspondent)

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA —Lieut. Lou Ford's big bomber was riddled with anti-aircraft shrapnel and practically disabled during a raid on a Japanese base north of Australia. But somehow he managed to make a crash landing on one motor and with the bomb bay doors open—without injuring any of his crew of six.

Then, as crew commander he herded them through six weeks of a jungle trek and brought them back full of malaria and determination to get back into action.

I got the story today in graphic detail because Lou Ford keeps a diary. When I asked for details he dug out the diary and said to help myself.

Lieut. Ford, dark-haired and husky, comes from Los Angeles. His crew consists of John Disbro of Defiance, O.; Ed Ashley of San Antonio; Jack Roberts and John Ochs of Pennsylvania; Bill Lorringer of Saginaw, Mich., and Bob Long of Columbus, O.

Following are some excerpts, occasionally expurgated:

"April 11: We took off on a mission carrying a heavy bomb load. We carried on at an airspeed of 235 miles. Our bombs were dropped on the targets which were an airfield and hangars.

"All of the enemy guns were firing. The ack-ack hit us in three places, and I had to dive to maintain speed. The hydraulic system was knocked out and the bomb bay doors wouldn't close: the starboard motor went out, and the oil pressure died.

"I was afraid to feather the propeller because I thought it had been hit. I finally had to level off and was barely able to keep altitude at 150 feet. The motor had cooled out a little and gave a little more power but it was hogging on gas.

"We sighted land and had to climb up to 8,000 feet to get over some mountains. It was a hard job. Then we started looking for a spot to land and I went down to 1,000 feet. I wanted to try to land in the sea near shore, but that isn't any good when the bomb bay doors are open.

"Everywhere we looked were swamps. There was one piece of solid-looking ground but it was full of trees. But it was the likeliest spot so I set her down. I checked speed by hitting a tree with one wing.

"The ship was a mess—a complete washout—but none of us was hurt. I doled out some rations. The mosquitoes were terrible and there wasn't any water. Nobody slept much.

"April 12: I left Ashley in charge, and Disbro, Long and I went exploring. We headed for the coast to look for help. The swamps and jungles were awful and the mosquitoes fierce. After hiking through this for seven and a half hours we came to a river where we found an outrigger canoe and paddled down to the coast. We found a village and the natives were friendly, giving us food and water.

"April 13: I got some natives to go back with me to the ship, leaving Long and Disbro at the village. The guides knew the jungle trails and we were back in three and a half hours. I checked the ship and found it had been hit in several places—the bombadier compartment, left wing, bomb bay, starboard engine and prop. We smashed all the valuable instruments and set the ship on fire.

"Then all of us returned to the village rejoining Long and Disbro. I passed out a ration of two quinine pills.

"April 14: We disinfected all our slight wounds which were scratches from thorns and mosquito bites. We iodinized the drinking water and ate some pawpaws, squash fish and coconuts. All of the men are holding up well but we are out of tobacco. The mosquitoes are still our main annoyance but we rig up our parachutes as nets and get some relief.

"April 15: There was a rain squall and everything is all wet. We arranged for guides to take us down the coast where a boat puts in occasionally. The district magistrate appeared in a scow and gave us a supply of meat, bread, water and whisky.

"April 18: We finally got away in an outrigger for a two day trip down the coast to a little town.

"April 22: This is Lucille McFarland's birthday and it's tough not being able to send her love and birthday greetings.

"April 25: The first attack of malaria hits us. I think I've got it.

"April 30: Still waiting for the boat. We went hunting. Killed a 13-foot python, wild boars, crocodiles up to 30 feet, giant octopi and scores of sharks. Everybody seems to have malaria.

"May 1: The boat will arrive tomorrow to take us home.

"May 3: The boat arrives but goes on promising to return in two days.

"May 5: The boat comes back. We start for home."

U. S. PRODUCTION NOW HARNESSED TO DEFEAT AXIS

Mid-Year Recapitulation Hints Output Likely To Be War Turning Point.

(Editor's Note: Mid-year is a time of stock taking. Mid-1942 is one of the most momentous in America's history. Wars are won today by gearing the entire national economy to all our effort. In the following article, Claude A. Jagger, general financial editor of the Associated Press and Wide World, tells how far we have come, points to the steep road ahead.)

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Mid-1942 may go down in history as the time when the United Nations definitely began to win the war.

Historians, doubtless, will say there was little on the surface to show it at the time. American troops had participated in no great offensive battle. Axis forces were in Egypt, striking for Suez, and Hitler was once more delivering sledge-hammer blows at the Russian defenses.

Bitter struggle and long and severe sacrifice still lay ahead for the United Nations.

But the salient basic fact was that the productive power of the United States had at long last been harnessed for war.

Things had happened after Pearl Harbor to an arms effort which had creaked and groaned with fits and starts, shifts and changes, ever since President Roosevelt on May 16, 1940, had called for an air force of 50,000 planes, something then widely called fantastic.

It was two years and three days later, on last May 19, that war production chief Nelson announced the United Nation's war production "is now greater than the Axis' in every category." Three weeks ago, he was able to make the flat assertion that the United States will make 60,000 airplanes in 1942 alone, many more than that in 1943.

Clearly, production is rolling in mid-1942, but at least four problems of supreme urgency remain.

First is the task of bringing our striking force to bear against the enemy, across thousands of miles of oceans. Submarines have been sinking ships faster than they were being launched, but ship-building is accelerating rapidly.

Second, now that the production machine is rolling is the enormous task of finding the steel, aluminum, copper, rubber and chemicals to feed it. The spotlight has shifted, said Nelson, "from manufacturing facilities to raw materials." Use of metals for civilian uses from new dishpans to bed springs has been stopped, and the day when iron fences, even brass ash trays, would be melted down seemed not far away.

Third, is the task of cutting financial policies and controls to cope with a $200,000,000,000 war effort and avoid the economic disaster of inflation.

While spending these huge sums, the government must take back as much as possible in taxes, and through borrowing from the public what it can be persuaded not to spend. It must ration scarce materials, and control prices. Price Administrator Henderson put a ceiling on most prices in May. A few things are already rationed. Congress is still wrestling with a new tax bill.

And fourth, and most vital, is the problem of manpower. When war production reaches its peak, and the armed forces are built up to maximum strength, many millions will have changed their jobs and homes, and much work formerly deemed essential will not be done. The registration of all males from 18 to 65 supplies not only information for selective service, but will supply the war manpower commission with a detailed index of skills.

The first half of 1942 has seen rationing of automobiles tires, sugar, bicycles typewriters, and in part of the country, gasoline, has only moderately affected everyday life as yet.

But this is only the first impact of the war upon the American economy — there's more coming.

Were Wed Three Months Ago

Former Screen Actor Stirling Hayden has disclosed that he and Madeleine Carroll, the film actress, were married three months ago in an undisclosed New England town. Hayden revealed the marriage to newsmen at Nassau, the Bahamas after Miss Carroll arrived there to visit him. Hayden, an experienced seaman, suddenly tossed his acting career aside several months ago to return to the sea.

GETS CUSTODY OF CHILD

ASHLAND—Temporary custody of Kenneth McFrederick 4 was given to an uncle, Joseph Warner, by Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson Wednesday, after the four-year-old boy had been obtained by his mother, Edna Carter of Cleveland, from his father, Thurman McFrederick, on a writ of habeas corpus.

The abrasive, tottenstone, is produced only in the state of Pennsylvania.

WAR BOND FOR NAMING WAR

MONTEREY, Calif.—(U.P.)—Monterey Herald offered a $25 war bond in a "Name the War" contest originated in response to President Roosevelt's request for a descriptive, simplified title for the battle against the Axis.

A Man's Woman + + +

By Jane Dixon

(Copyright, 1942)

CHAPTER XXI

"Hi, Red," Ronnie greeted, rushing at Kay, grasping her hand. "Here's that man again!"

"Ron!" Kay was genuinely glad to see him. "What on earth are you doing here?"

Ronnie said, "Seeing you. The purpose of my visit is to keep all work and no play from making Jill a dull girl."

"Nice of you, but not in the least necessary old dear," Kay boasted. "I was hit on the head by another display idea today, for National Candies. A very bright idea too, if I do say so myself. I feel keen as a razor."

"Then you're in proper shape to go galloping with me this evening. We'll dine handsomely, see a play, then leap from night spot to night spot in the approved metropolitan manner. First Ruban Bleu, then Tony's then the Stork . . . pal, I can use a hit of high-toned night-clubbing after Somerset. I want to romp and roar and shoot Roman candles. I want to hear a hot-cha band and guzzle wine and eat bacon and eggs at dawning. I want to shake the curse of the Country club set off my shoulders and be city folks for a while. What time do we start?"

"We don't start," Kay said.

"What?" Ronnie started back in mock alarm. "Maybe you don't remember me. I'm the boy friend from the corn fields. You owe it to the days of your childhood."

"We don't start unless you promise to return me to this hotel, safe and in sound mind, at a reasonable hour. I'm not Gladys Gay. I'm a wage-earner and I've a big job of work to do tomorrow."

"Aw. Down with labor! Can't you tell the boss you're on a one-week strike? We could cover a lot of territory in a week."

"Seriously Ronnie," Kay's mien took the pixie smile from Ronnie's face. "I must go to the office feeling fit. I can't play until all hours and be bright and bustling in the morning. So, unless you promise . . ."

"All right," he said dejectedly. "If that's the way you want it. But you sure do drive a hard bargain Missy. Say 7:30?"

"Sharp. Ronnie, did you see mother before you left? How is she? How does she look? Do you think things are all right at the house?"

"If you mean are your noble relatives concealing their fangs, I can report that to the best of my knowledge, they are. Sweet Tally has been scattering some choice bits of misinformation about your New York hegira for the ears. I suppose, of the haughty engineer you left behind you. Poor guy, I pity him, with a wench like Tally on his trail. I phoned your mother from the airport. Didn't know I was coming until I was on my way. She sounded like I was the jeweler delivering a diamond bracelet. Sent you her love; asked me to kiss you for her."

"Ronnie!"

"Well, you can't blame a guy for wishful thinking, can you?"

* * *

Dinner in the Sert Room, Waldorf-Astoria, New York.

Mingling of music, of perfume, a light and color, of human voices that ran the register from ennui to ecstasy.

"It can't be real," Kay said. "I read it in a book and now I'm dreaming it over again."

"So you like Mr. Waldorf's modest little eatery." Ronnie expanded. "Speaking of dreams, my pretty, where did you get that dress?"

Kay laughed. "Oh, this chic little number? It was designed for me by Madame Floray . . . don't be a dunce, Ronnie. You've seen it dozens of times. It's a fugitive from the family trunks. But for your information, it's real Chantilly lace and great-aunt Serena wore it at the governor's ball when she was a bride. It's a genuine antique."

Ronnie heaved a mighty sigh. "And they say environment doesn't count. Maybe you have worn that dress dozens of times, back there, but I pledge you my honor, I've never seen it before tonight."

"It's the orchids," Kay said. "Ronnie, they're not orchids. They're a flock of butterflies that lit on my shoulders."

Ronnie sighed. "Lucky devils."

At midnight Kay said, "Ronnie, it's glorious. Where have I been all my life?"

"You've been the same place I've been," he replied bitterly. "Buried in a one-street town under a mountain of family traditions. Only you've worked your way out. I buy my way out."

"You can do what I've done, what other men and women are doing . . ."

"Meaning you and the haughty engineer? I'm afraid I can't. I'm too soft.

"I hadn't thought of — Gary," Kay said. "Perhaps he had to find his way up from the beginning. I'm thinking of you. I'm thinking of myself . . . of the time I wasted struggling to be the Kenyon I wasn't Money, privilege. It isn't there. The bag is empty. There's no Kenyon money, no Kenyon privilege left. It's a new deal, thank heaven. What you ARE, not what you WERE."

"I wish the Farnsworths had suffered a shock in the bankroll too. Maybe then we'd pick up and develop our red corpuscles."

"You don't have to wait." They were in the lobby of Kay's hotel. The endowed hotel for working girls. "It's now that counts. You're clever, Ron. You're kind. Find something to do. Go to work. It's adventure—adventure in the highest. It's reality."

"The thing I've tried to escape," Ronnie said.

"The thing you'll never escape," Kay said.

* * *

There was a letter waiting for Kay from her mother.

"Dear, my own:

"I miss you so much, my dear daughter. Thank you for the money order. It took care of our immediate needs, but there are so many bills, people we didn't know about, demanding payment. Your cousin Elsa has been having one of her spells. She still blames you for taking Ronald away from her, though goodness knows he never asked for her, always for you when he did come here; and now that you're gone he never comes near the place. She keeps telephoning him, invitations, do this do that, and when he refuses it makes her frantic. If she'd stop running after the poor boy . . . but she seems not to have a pinch of pride.

"Mr. Fowler, the young engineer at the mill, called last evening and took me for a long drive out the River road. It was so thoughtful of him. He seems to be such a nice young man. I stopped in at the Sweet shop today to see Bessie Munsell. My how that girl has improved. She isn't sullen any more. She's quite charming and she had her hair done a new and becoming way. I told her how pretty she looks and she said, 'Thanks to Kay.' Did you show her how to do her hair, daughter?

"Do not worry about finding a place for us to live in New York right away. There's a little matter of business I'm looking after here that may take a few weeks. I'll tell you all about it when the plans are farther along. My love and blessing.

"Mother."

Kay read the letter a second time. A little matter of business? What business could her mother have in mind? Not one of Aunt Cora's devious schemes, she hoped.

Gary. How like him to think of her mother, to be kind, to be considerate. "He took me for a long drive out the River road." Was it for Gary, as it was for her, a road of precious memories?

UTAH PRODUCES VITAL METALS

State Turns Out 10 of 19 Metals Vital to U. S. War Effort.

(By United Press)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — Utah produces commercially 10 of the 16 metals considered most vital to national defense.

The essential metals are iron, manganese, copper, zinc, tin, lead, nickel, tungsten, molybdenum, chromium, vanadium, aluminum, magnesium, mercury, antimony and beryllium. Utah produces all but aluminum, magnesium, beryllium, nickel, chromium and tin.

Proposed plants would recover ore for aluminum from Utah's alunite deposits and magnesium from magnesium, chloride beds. Vast beds of alunite exist near Marysvale. Rich magnesium brines have been tapped near Thompsons.

If the federal government goes forward with proposed plans, aluminum and magnesium will be added to the list of minerals the state is already contributing to national defense.

Utah also may have the other strategic metals deep under one of the many mountain ranges that criss-cross the state. Arthur L. Crawford, microscopist and mineral technologist for the engineering experiment station at the University of Utah, has issued instructions to prospectors on sources of the metals not now commercially produced in the state. He listed areas where such ores might occur.

It is entirely possible, Crawford said, that prospectors may yet find tin, beryllium or nickel in some out-of-the-way canyon.

Death Toll 30 In Two Plane Crashes

THE WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

This waiting for the decision in the battle for Egypt is like sitting outside an operating room in a hospital while a surgeon wields his scalpel in a life or death operation.

The momentous engagement which now is going full blast seventy miles west of the Great British naval base of Alexandria, may be one of the threads upon which hang "our way of life." Equally it may determine the fate of the Nazi who would make us servitors and rob us of our heritage.

General Sir Claude Auchinleck, the British commander, himself suddenly ended the withdrawal of his army and deliberately precipitated the big battle.

It was the supreme moment for which Field Marshal Rommel had been striving, since he not only was anxious to engage the British before the latter had a chance to reorganize their disorganized forces, but he wanted to do battle before his dangerously drawn out lines of communication were further extended. The Nazi commander's supply lines likely are his greatest menace. The one item of supply upon which both armies depended for their very lives was water, every drop of which had to be transported over the burning sands under bombardment.

Over on the other side of Hitler's pincers operation the Nazis claimed the capture of the important Russian naval base of Sevastopol.

The fall of Sevastopol, while not a decisive event, would have far reaching effects both strategic and political. For one thing it would weaken Russia's hold on the Black sea and would increase Nazi pressure on Turkey.

HENDERSON TO ASK SENATORS FOR EXTRA FUND

Declares $86,000,000 More Needed to Hold Ceilings; Boosts Fruit Price.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Price Administrator Leon Henderson prepared to head for Capitol Hill today to ask the senate for the extra $86,000,000 the house refused him—the difference, he said, between rationing and anarchy in distribution.

The session of the senate appropriations subcommittee considering the supply bill which carries this fiscal year's funds for the office of price administration was private but Henderson made his case public in advance with a statement that "price, rent and rationing controls are all placed in jeopardy" by the $75,000,000 budget which was all the house would give him.

Henderson sought $161,000,000 for operations through next June and said this estimate "was built upon careful first-hand estimates of the requirements of the office." Unless the full amount is forthcoming, he said, the OPA may have to cancel rent control in 292 of the 367 projected areas and curtail other functions.

There is an inadequate staff to administer the universal price ceiling, he continued, and none at all to administer the ceiling on consumer services. Moreover the OPA "believes that it faces at least 10 additional rationing programs during the coming 12 months."

As he appeared for more funds, Henderson also spotlighted two other disputes with congress—the price concessions to farmers and the matter of subsidies to absorb losses under price ceilings.

He announced that he was "being compelled to take measures that will raise retail prices of the 1942 pack of canned and dried fruits by as much as 15 per cent and possibly more."

This represented the first departure permitted from the universal price ceiling. Henderson explained it was made necessary by the concessions to growers which the farm bloc wrote into the price control act and by the refusal of congress to approve the subsidy plan by which the government could have absorbed business losses when necessary to make price controls stick.

BOUND OVER ON WEAPON CHARGE

Man Jailed By Police After They Hear of Threats To Former Wife.

William J. Williams, Wayne street, was arrested last night by Mansfield police after he had allegedly threatened his former wife and a companion with a loaded revolver.

Williams was disarmed at a North Main street restaurant by Patrolman John Gilbert a few minutes after he fled from an auto in which police were told he brandished the revolver.

Arraigned in municipal court this morning on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, Williams pleaded guilty and was bound over to await action of the Richland county grand jury under $1,500 bond.

Patrolman Gilbert said that Williams' former wife, Blanche Remy, Fourth street, had told him that Williams had threatened her and Harry Waldaman of Raymond avenue in a car at Sixth and Main streets.

The former Mrs. Williams told police she and Waldaman met Williams at the entrance to her home and had offered to give him a ride to his own home. Patrolman Gilbert said that Miss Remy and Waldaman told him that Williams had pulled out the revolver while they were waiting for a traffic light to change at Sixth and Main streets.

Waldaman told Gilbert he was able to get out of the car and run to a nearby store where he telephoned the police department.

Williams disappeared when he learned that police were coming but was found a short time later in a North Main street restaurant.

PLAN HUGE WHEAT POOL TO FEED 'VICTIM PEOPLES' AFTER WAR

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Millions of hungry people in Axis-occupied nations today had another reason to hope for a United Nations victory.

It was the decision of the United States and four other countries to set aside an immense pool of wheat for the relief of war-stricken countries, to be rushed to them "so soon as the international situation permits."

That means as soon as shipping is available to carry breadstuffs instead of bombs, wheat instead of weapons, across the seas.

Establishment of a relief pool of not less than 100,000,000 bushels is only one of the features of the wheat agreement made public yesterday with the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, and Argentina as signatories. Other provisions relate to the control of wheat production, stocks, and exports and the co-operation of all five countries in the stabilization of prices.

What urgently matters to hungry millions, however, is the picture of plenty disclosed in the paragraphs of the pact and in the facts of the situation it is designed to meet.

The combined wheat surplus of the four exporting countries involved now aggregates nearly 1,500,000,000 bushels. Defeat of the Axis will clear the seas for peaceful commerce and put that wheat into circulation. The ultimate aim is restoration of the international wheat trade on a sound basis; but to make sure the hungry millions will get bread without delay as soon as the war is won the 100,000,000-bushel relief pool is created.

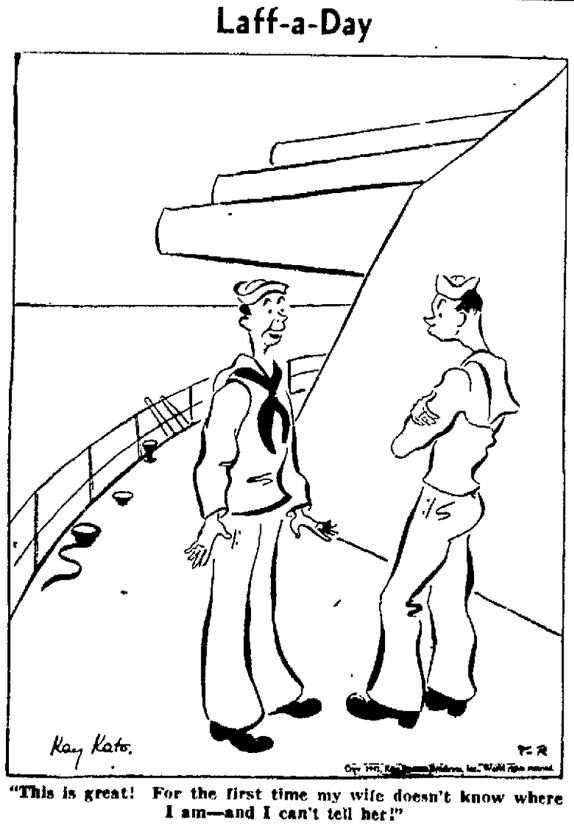
Laff-a-Day



"This is great! For the first time my wife doesn't know where I am—and I can't tell her!"

Up and Down THE STREET

The three draft boards tried, during the registration of 18-to-20½-year-olds Saturday and Tuesday, to make certain that the youths registered in the board serving the areas in which they reside. But Byran, Styert, clerk at Board 2, made one exception. Late Tuesday afternoon, a young man came into the office panting. He had hurried away from work for a few minutes to register, and was in a terrific rush. He told Styert he pushed the button for the elevator, but the car didn't arrive immediately. So he decided to run up, which he did. By the time he reached the board office on the ninth floor, he was winded. Styert registered him and sent the papers over to Board 1, where the youth should have gone to register.

Detective Lee Remy intends to enjoy many a night-time fishing outing this summer but he's through with employing any scientific gadgets to help lure reluctant fish. Remy used an electrically-lighted float while fishing Tuesday night and was so intrigued in watching the light bobbing up and down on the dark waters that he nearly forgot to fish. It worked swell, according to Remy, and he got a nice fish but unfortunately he lost the float when his line became snagged. Now Lee intends to depend upon his old wooden or cork floats.

Cupid fell down on the job in Richland county in June, the traditional month of brides. Only 60 marriage licenses were issued in probate court as compared with 76 in June last year, which was the all-time high. Last month's total, however, represented a big increase over May when only 33 couples applied for licenses. The decline this spring and summer was blamed on the absence of many "eligible" young men who are in the army.

U. S. CITIZENS LEFT STRANDED

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Several hundred Americans apparently were stranded today in Europe for the war's duration unless they want to attempt the return home on ships subject to all the perils of war.

For many—particularly those in enemy countries for whom exchange arrangements had been started but not completed—even that is impossible. They face the prospect of detention on foreign soil until the war is ended.

The situation developed from Germany's refusal to continue its guarantee of safe conduct for the Swedish liner Drottningholm, which has made two round trips between Lisbon and New York for the exchange of American and Axis nationals. Several more trips had been planned but Germany's action now makes them impossible.

OHIOANS VOTE 'NO'

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Ohio's two Republican senators, Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati and Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, voted "no" yesterday as the senate confirmed, 39 to 20, the nomination of Thomas F. Meaney to a New Jersey federal court bench.

ARMY CHECKS IDENTITY OF BURNED MEN

21 Listed as Dead Following West Virginia Accident; Nine Killed In West.

(By Associated Press)

WELCH, W. Va.—Army officials sought today to identify the mangled and burned bodies of 21 soldiers, occupants of an army transport plane which crashed in flames on a southern West Virginia hillside.

The transport, a former American Airlines flagship, lost a wing at 500 feet and plunged with smoke pouring from the fuselage into a garden at Premier, three miles from here, yesterday.

Nine soldiers were killed in another mishap yesterday in California when a four-motored army bomber crashed and exploded on a low knoll with a roar heard for miles. Army men at March field said the craft was on a routine training flight.

West Virginia state troopers, guarding wreckage of the airliner at Premier, said the bodies were beyond recognition but they believed 13 could be identified by tags, another by clothing and a 15th possibly by a ring.

Seven men were identified tentatively as:

Lieut. E. A. Harness, La Porte, Ind.

Kermit Masters, Greenview, Mo.

Edward Carr, Philadelphia.

Elmer J. Campbell, Luray, Va.

Chester Tetrowsky, Auburn, N. Y.

Archie W. Chamblin, Leavenworth, Kan.

Leon A. Olin, address unknown.

Army equipment and personal effects strewn near the wreckage bore the names of Erwin Stratman, Corporal Jackson, Russell A. Carter, Elmore Edwards.

A scorched postcard found near the wreckage bore this message: "All that a birthday can hold of joy—that's what I am wishing for my dear boy." It was signed "Pop."

The plane was believed en route from a northern airfield to a base in the south.

Dead in the California crash were:

First Lieut. Robert K. Murphy, 25, Twin Falls, Idaho, pilot.

Second Lieut. Jack W. Green, 24, Kansas City, Kan., co-pilot.

Staff Sgt. Charles H. Davis, 27, New Boston, O.

Staff Sgt. Norman S. Anderson, 25, Enderlin, N. D.

Sgt. John E. Rice, 25, Higbee, Mo.

Corp. Harry Scuffos, jr., 19, Spartanburg, S. C.

Pvt. James R. Stephens, 22, Remington, Va.

Pvt. Jack Hearall, 29, Eldorado, Kan.

Pvt. Bill Rosser, 27, Anson, Tex.

Log Cabin Idyl Of Child Bride Comes to Close

ZANESVILLE — (U.P.) — The idyllic love in a log cabin of which 16-year-old Emma Sue Shultz dreamed when she married Charles Shipman, 74, lasted nearly 10 months.

The bride's romance ended, she charged, when her husband threatened her life, cursed her constantly, failed to provide properly and began to drink continuously.

Her petition for a divorce was on file in Zanesville common pleas court today. It was filed through her mother, Mrs. Lulu Shipman, who is married to a brother of Charles Shipman.

Emma Sue and Shipman were married last August by Rev. W. W. Thompson, pastor of the Negro Fire Baptised Holiness and Church of God of America, after several pastors had refused to perform the ceremony because of the couple's difference in age. They separated in May.

The child bride and her husband set up housekeeping in a log cabin in the Muskingum Valley hills south of Zanesville.

Death Toll 30 In Two Plane Crashes

THE WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

This waiting for the decision in the battle for Egypt is like sitting outside an operating room in a hospital while a surgeon wields his scalpel in a life or death operation.

The momentous engagement which now is going full blast seventy miles west of the Great British naval base of Alexandria, may be one of the threads upon which hang "our way of life." Equally it may determine the fate of the Nazi who would make us servitors and rob us of our heritage.

General Sir Claude Auchinleck, the British commander, himself suddenly ended the withdrawal of his army and deliberately precipitated the big battle.

It was the supreme moment for which Field Marshal Rommel had been striving, since he not only was anxious to engage the British before the latter had a chance to reorganize their disorganized forces, but he wanted to do battle before his dangerously drawn out lines of communication were further extended. The Nazi commander's supply lines likely are his greatest menace. The one item of supply upon which both armies depended for their very lives was water, every drop of which had to be transported over the burning sands under bombardment.

Over on the other side of Hitler's pincers operation the Nazis claimed the capture of the important Russian naval base of Sevastopol.

The fall of Sevastopol, while not a decisive event, would have far reaching effects both strategic and political. For one thing it would weaken Russia's hold on the Black sea and would increase Nazi pressure on Turkey.

HENDERSON TO ASK SENATORS FOR EXTRA FUND

Declares $86,000,000 More Needed to Hold Ceilings; Boosts Fruit Price.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Price Administrator Leon Henderson prepared to head for Capitol Hill today to ask the senate for the extra $86,000,000 the house refused him—the difference, he said, between rationing and anarchy in distribution.

The session of the senate appropriations subcommittee considering the supply bill which carries this fiscal year's funds for the office of price administration was private but Henderson made his case public in advance with a statement that "price, rent and rationing controls are all placed in jeopardy" by the $75,000,000 budget which was all the house would give him.

Henderson sought $161,000,000 for operations through next June and said this estimate "was built upon careful first-hand estimates of the requirements of the office." Unless the full amount is forthcoming, he said, the OPA may have to cancel rent control in 292 of the 367 projected areas and curtail other functions.

There is an inadequate staff to administer the universal price ceiling, he continued, and none at all to administer the ceiling on consumer services. Moreover the OPA "believes that it faces at least 16 additional rationing programs during the coming 12 months."

As he appeared for more funds, Henderson also spotlighted two other disputes with congress—the price concessions to farmers and the matter of subsidies to absorb losses under price ceilings.

He announced that he was "being compelled to take measures that will raise retail prices of the 1942 pack of canned and dried fruits by as much as 15 per cent and possibly more."

This represented the first departure permitted from the universal price ceiling. Henderson explained it was made necessary by the concessions to growers which the farm bloc wrote into the price control act and by the refusal of congress to approve the subsidy plan by which the government could have absorbed business losses when necessary to make price controls stick.

BOUND OVER ON WEAPON CHARGE

Man Jailed By Police After They Hear of Threats To Former Wife.

William J. Williams, Wayne street, was arrested last night by Mansfield police after he had allegedly threatened his former wife and a companion with a loaded revolver.

Williams was disarmed at a North Main street restaurant by Patrolman John Gilbert a few minutes after he fled from an auto in which police were told he brandished the revolver.

Arraigned in municipal court this morning on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, Williams pleaded guilty and was bound over to await action of the Richland county grand jury under $1,500 bond.

Patrolman Gilbert said that Williams' former wife, Blanche Remy, Fourth street, had told him that Williams had threatened her and Harry Waldaman of Raymond avenue in a car at Sixth and Main streets.

The former Mrs. Williams told police she and Waldaman met Williams at the entrance to her home and had offered to give him a ride to his own home. Patrolman Gilbert said that Miss Remy and Waldaman told him that Williams had pulled out the revolver while they were waiting for a traffic light to change at Sixth and Main streets.

Waldaman told Gilbert he was able to get out of the car and run to a nearby store where he telephoned the police department.

Williams disappeared when he learned that police were coming but was found a short time later in a North Main street restaurant.

PLAN HUGE WHEAT POOL TO FEED 'VICTIM PEOPLES' AFTER WAR

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Millions of hungry people in Axis-occupied nations today had another reason to hope for a United Nations victory.

It was the decision of the United States and four other countries to set aside an immense pool of wheat for the relief of war-stricken countries, to be rushed to them "so soon as the international situation permits."

That means as soon as shipping is available to carry breadstuffs instead of bombs, wheat instead of weapons, across the seas.

Establishment of a relief pool of not less than 100,000,000 bushels is only one of the features of the wheat agreement made public yesterday with the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, and Argentina as signatories. Other provisions relate to the control of wheat production, stocks, and exports and the co-operation of all five countries in the stabilization of prices.

What urgently matters to hungry millions, however, is the picture of plenty disclosed in the paragraphs of the pact and in the facts of the situation it is designed to meet.

The combined wheat surplus of the four exporting countries involved now aggregates nearly 1,500,000,000 bushels. Defeat of the Axis will clear the seas for peaceful commerce and put that wheat into circulation. The ultimate aim is restoration of the international wheat trade on a sound basis; but to make sure the hungry millions will get bread without delay as soon as the war is won the 100,000,000-bushel relief pool is created.

CAMP DATE NEAR

Dent Urges Scouts to Register Speedily For Periods.

With the first camp period at Camp Avery Hand, jr., opening Monday, Floyd E. Dent, area Scout executive, today urged Mansfield Boy Scouts planning to attend to sign us as soon as possible at headquarters.

Four camp periods, each running from a Monday to Sunday, will be held during the month of July, Dent said.

D. D. Montoya, area Scout field executive, has planned a full program of activities for the summer camp sessions including hiking, nature study, fishing, adventure trips, "ghost" hikes and special campfire stunts and stories.

During the month of August individual patrol camps will be held. Patrols will come to camp under their own leadership and conduct their own program, as if on individual camp sites.

PUMPKIN SHOW CANCELLED

CIRCLEVILLE —(AP)— For the second time in its history the Circleville pumpkin show was canceled today. The Pickaway county agricultural society voted unanimously to call off the 1942 festival "in the interest of the government's war effort."

DIES AT AGE 77 IN PLYMOUTH TODAY

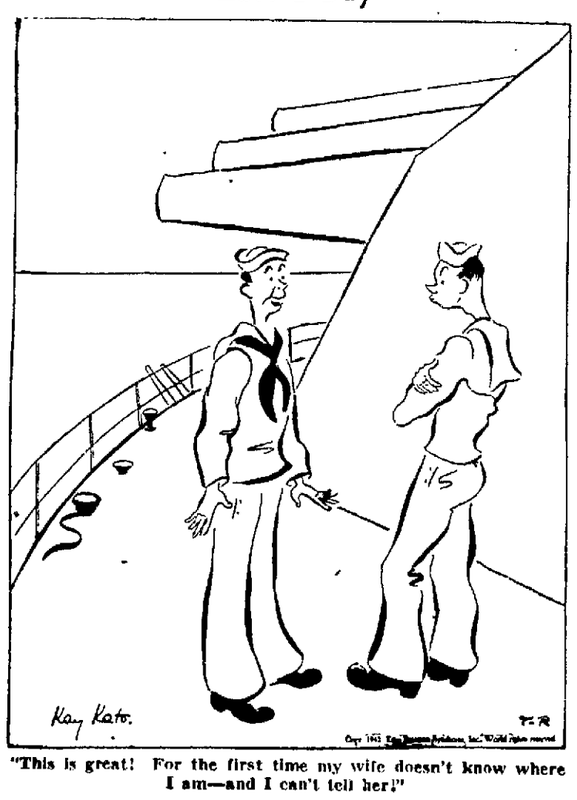
Mrs. Ardella Hills To Be Buried Saturday Afternoon.

PLYMOUTH—A life-long Plymouth resident, Mrs. Ardella Hills, 77, died this morning at her home. She had been in failing health for some time.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Mary Drew of Attica; a son, Harry at home; one brother, Charles McLaughlin of Florida; one grandchild and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the home. Rev. H. T. Wintermute, pastor of the Methodist church, will officiate. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

Laff-a-Day



"This is great! For the first time my wife doesn't know where I am—and I can't tell her!"

The three draft boards tried, during the registration of 18-to-20½-year-olds Saturday and Tuesday, to make certain that the youths registered in the board serving the areas in which they reside. But Byran. Styert, clerk at Board 2, made one exception. Late Tuesday afternoon, a young man came into the office panting. He had hurried away from work for a few minutes to register, and was in a terrific rush. He told Styert he pushed the button for the elevator, but the car didn't arrive immediately. So he decided to run up, which he did. By the time he reached the board office on the ninth floor, he was winded. Styert registered him and sent the papers over to Board 1, where the youth should have gone to register.

Detective Lee Remy intends to enjoy many a night-time fishing outing this summer but he's through with employing any scientific gadgets to help lure reluctant fish. Remy used an electrically-lighted float while fishing Tuesday night and was so intrigued in watching the light bobbing up and down on the dark waters that he nearly forgot to fish. It worked swell, according to Remy, and he got a nice fish but unfortunately he lost the float when his line became snagged. Now Lee intends to depend upon his old wooden or cork floats.

Cupid fell down on the job in Richland county in June, the traditional month of brides. Only 60 marriage licenses were issued in probate court as compared with 76 in June last year, which was the all-time high. Last month's total, however, represented a big increase over May when only 53 couples applied for licenses. The decline, this spring and summer was blamed on the absence of many "eligible" young men who are in the army.

After months of having no headquarters other than the office of Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleish the city's civilian defense organization finally has an office that will serve as clearing-house for civilian defense information. Located on the third floor of the city building, the office is open from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. daily. In charge of the office are the members of the civilian defense volunteer workers' committee — George Sherman, chairman; Earl Kochheiser and Carlton Fernyak.

U. S. CITIZENS LEFT STRANDED

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Several hundred Americans apparently were stranded today in Europe for the war's duration unless they want to attempt the return home on ships subject to all the perils of war.

For many—particularly those in enemy countries for whom exchange arrangements had been started but not completed—even that is impossible. They face the prospect of detention on foreign soil until the war is ended.

The situation developed from Germany's refusal to continue its guarantee of safe conduct for the Swedish liner Drottningholm, which has made two round trips between Lisbon and New York for the exchange of American and Axis nationals. Several more trips had been planned but Germany's action now makes them impossible.

OHIOANS VOTE 'NO'

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Ohio's two Republican senators, Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati and Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, voted "no" yesterday as the senate confirmed, 39 to 20, the nomination of Thomas F. Meaney to a New Jersey federal court bench.

ARMY CHECKS IDENTITY OF BURNED MEN

21 Listed as Dead Following West Virginia Accident; Nine Killed In West.

(By Associated Press)

WELCH, W. Va.—Army officials sought today to identify the mangled and burned bodies of 21 soldiers, occupants of an army transport plane which crashed in flames on a southern West Virginia hillside.

The transport, a former American Airlines flagship, lost a wing at 500 feet and plunged with smoke pouring from the fuselage into a garden at Premier, three miles from here, yesterday.

Nine soldiers were killed in another mishap yesterday in California when a four-motored army bomber crashed and exploded on a low knoll with a roar heard for miles. Army men at March field said the craft was on a routine training flight.

West Virginia state troopers, guarding wreckage of the airliner at Premier, said the bodies were beyond recognition but they believed 13 could be identified by tags, another by clothing and a 15th possibly by a ring.

Seven men were identified tentatively as:

Lieut. E. A. Harness, La Porte, Ind.

Kermit Masters, Greenview, Mo.

Edward Carr, Philadelphia.

Elmer J. Campbell, Luray, Va.

Chester Tetrowsky, Auburn, N. Y.

Archie W. Chamblin, Leavenworth, Kan.

Leon A. Olin, address unknown.

Army equipment and personal effects strewn near the wreckage bore the names of Erwin Stratman, Corporal Jackson, Russell A. Carter, Elmore Edwards.

A scorched postcard found near the wreckage bore this message: "All that a birthday can hold of joy—that's what I am wishing for my dear boy." It was signed "Pop."

The plane was believed en route from a northern airfield to a base in the south.

Dead in the California crash were:

First Lieut. Robert K. Murphy, 25, Twin Falls, Idaho, pilot.

Second Lieut. Jack W. Green, 24, Kansas City, Kan., co-pilot.

Staff Sgt. Charles H. Davis, 27, New Boston, O.

Staff Sgt. Norman S. Anderson, 25, Enderlin, N. D.

Sgt. John E. Rice, 25, Higbee, Mo.

Corp. Harry Scuffos, jr., 19, Spartanburg, S. C.

Pvt. James R. Stephens, 22, Remington, Va.

Pvt. Jack Hearall, 29, Eldorado, Kan.

Pvt. Bill Rosser, 27, Anson, Tex.

Log Cabin Idyl Of Child Bride Comes to Close

ZANESVILLE — (U.P.) — The idyllic love in a log cabin of which 16-year-old Emma Sue Shultz dreamed when she married Charles Shipman, 74, lasted nearly 10 months.

The bride's romance ended, she charged, when her husband threatened her life, cursed her constantly, failed to provide properly and began to drink continuously.

Her petition for a divorce was on file in Zanesville common pleas court today. It was filed through her mother, Mrs. Lulu Shipman, who is married to a brother of Charles Shipman.

Emma Sue and Shipman were married last August by Rev. W. W. Thompson, pastor of the Negro Fire Baptised Holiness and Church of God of America, after several pastors had refused to perform the ceremony because of the couple's difference in age. They separated in May.

The child bride and her husband set up housekeeping in a log cabin in the Muskingum Valley hills south of Zanesville.

Girl Tells Of Unhappy Home Life

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Some time ago this column printed a letter concerning temporary reconciliations between unhappily married couples, which so often result in the birth of unwanted children.

Some amazing letters have come from unhappy people who feel themselves victims of mismated marriages. This one, from a girl of 17, gives the child's side of the case:

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"You wrote in your column about parents who had halfhearted reconciliations. I'm a girl of 17 years of age; I have a kid sister of 13 Our parents are like the ones you wrote about. When you say that children are the ones to be considered first of all, you must have a family like ours in mind.

"My sister, like myself, has had an unhappy childhood She has run away from home twice I'd go, too, if I thought it would help. We have heard nothing but quarreling as long as we can remember. Yet our parents tell us it's for our sakes they have stayed together.

"We are ashamed to bring our schoolmates home. Some of them are not allowed in our house We both hate to come home after school.

"Two of the children who live here have divorced parents and they are a lot happier than we are. Their father is married again, so they spend some time with each parent. Our parents are both nice to us when they are not together. My mother hates my father and is very jealous when either of us shows any affection for him

"Father tries, for our sakes, to get along with mother, but she nags and nags, and throws up to him that he should have stayed with the woman he wanted so much. All my life I've heard about 'that woman.' Once I asked my grandmother about her She told me it was someone my father used to love, but because he loved us he came back to make a home for us But he hasn't made us happy by living with us And my mother certainly isn't happy

"Wouldn't it be better for all of us if he had stayed away? I remember when he used to come and see us and take me out when I was a child Mother was even nice then. I hope the children you wrote about don't grow up to feel as we do

"An Unhappy Girl"

I doubt if anyone but the child of an unhappy home and a mismated marriage could have written this letter It is, indeed the children who should be considered in such cases Unless parental reconciliations are wholehearted, they are worse than no reconciliations at all.

What do my readers think of this sort of family life?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Very much awake," I told my husband demurely, pulling the door wide open Then his dear arms were around me, but I could not control my convulsive sobs

"Madge! Sweetheart!" he implored. "What is it? Has anything happened?

"No," I faltered when I could speak. "It's only that I'm so glad you're back safely."

His relieved laugh was full of tenderness

"Now, cry it all out!" he commanded comfortingly "I dedicated this shoulder to you at the altar for that express purpose"

"Oh, Dicky," I said, nestling closer to him "you are such a comforting and charming idiot"

Hysteria Banished.

"Well," he drawled, "I've been assured of that—as far as the noun is concerned—many times in my career. But those adjectives are distinctly your own invention. Thanks for the compliment, just the same"

"You're welcome, I'm sure," I said pertly. Then we were silent for a long minute of blessed reunion which had no need of words. When at last I broke the silence with a question, all my hysteria was gone

"Did you have a difficult time with Carolyn?" I asked, shifting my head so that I could see his face

"Not after I read the riot act to her," he said grimly "She shot every arrow in her quiver at me; tried every blandishment to get me to let her stop off at a village about ten miles from Dalemont, where she said she simply had to see some person who could do Marion and herself infinite harm if she didn't act to stop it."

"She had tried to enlist Ronald in that project before you left Dalemont, hadn't she?" I asked.

"Oh, he told you, I suppose," he rejoined. "Well, that's all right. We have no secrets from you. Yes, she did—the poor sap! If she only knew the roosting place of her collegiate gangster, she wouldn't be so anxious to contact him"

"Father told me of the clever way you trapped him," I said "I've felt so safe since I knew."

"According to Dad, you've been doing some clever stunts yourself," he said. "But we'll discuss nothing now which can be postponed until later; you need rest too badly Suffice it to say that Carolyn is safe back in college, with plenty of capable women on trail to keep track of her.

Discuss Future Plans.

"Day after tomorrow, Dad tells me, we're moving, you and I, over to old Harry's, to wait for Katharine, who will start for the city as soon as Lillian and Miss Whitlock get there.

"I gather that Dad has planned for the transfer of nursing authority to Miss Whitlock and psychological care to Lillian. That, incidentally, will be a great thing for Lil"

"If anything can assuage her grief and terror, the children will," I said with a nostalgic longing for Faith, Junior and Roderick.

"I know, darling," Dicky answered my unspoken thought, as he drew me comfortingly closer. Then he rose and lifted me to my feet

"No more talky-talk now," he said. "You're going straight to bed. I'll sit by you and hold your hand, if you want me to, until you drop off, but sleep you're going to get pronto, or I'll know the reason why."

Train Now For Job In Teaching

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

The country over there is a marked teacher shortage and a big drop in the number attending teachers colleges.

A small percentage of men teachers have entered the armed forces. Many men and women teachers have entered industry or business, a few for patriotic reasons, but more to get better pay.

In order to keep teachers some boards of education have upped salaries. More will have to do so soon. Because of low pay, tire shortage and gas rationing, the rural schools are facing a desperate shortage in teachers.

Jobs Waiting.

Many bright girls just graduated from high school shouud enter a teachers college next fall Although in some it takes four years to prepare for teaching, it is pretty certain that jobs will be waiting.

A year or so after the war girls and boys will flock to teachers colleges and when they graduate there will be an oversupply of teachers, as happened after World war I, but those who enter teacher-training next fall will almost surely find on graduation a choice job.

Moreover, the young woman ready to teach in primary grades will find more children to teach four or five years hence than today. More babies were born last year than in any other year since 1923. Though the number of teachers needed in the lower grades has been reduced in the last few years, the reverse will happen five or six years from now.

The cost of attending a state teachers college is relatively small. The training won't be lost even should the girl marry. Hardly any other training fits one better for being a good housewife and mother. The emphasis is on understanding children, and in most teachers colleges there is a good home economics department. Family life and child development as a rule have a larger place in the teachers college than in the liberal arts college.

Summer Courses.

Many liberal arts colleges give teacher-training at the junior and senior high school level. Some college graduates who haven't enought credits in "education courses" to qualify for teaching might be wise to take summer courses. Others who have finished two or three years at a liberal arts college might wisely consider shifting next fall to a teachers college.

Rules against married teachers are relaxing and will continue to do so for some years after the war.

Q. When a child begins to ask the names of the various parts of his body, should I call them by their medical names?

A. By all means, call them by their medical or true names. Using with the child an accurate and sensible vocabulary makes it so much easier to answer his questions about the facts of life.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DISTRIBUTION DECIDES

When you have a hand of about average high card strength—the equivalent of one ace, one king, one queen, one jack—the question of whether that is a good hand or a bad hand can be decided by your distribution. If you have three suits of three cards each and only one four-carder, it is a bad hand. If they are distributed in any other way, it begins to be a good hand. And, the farther away it gets from that even pattern, the better it becomes, so long as there is any kind of fitting suit between your holding and your partner's.

	♠ 9 8 6 5 ♥ 8 2 ♦ A K Q 3 ♣ 10 9 5
♠ A Q 4 ♥ K Q 7 6 ♦ 5 ♣ 10 8 4 ♣ 7 2	N W E S	♠ K 10 3 ♥ A 9 4 ♦ 7 6 2 ♣ Q J 8 6
	♠ J 7 2 ♥ J 10 3 ♦ J 9 5 ♣ A K 4 3

(Dealer: North East-West vulnerable.

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♥

Just value East's high cards. He has one of everything from the ace to the seven-spot, inclusive. That hand is as close to an exact average as you expect to see, being above it only to the extent that it contains two sixes. It hasn't five cents worth of distribution value, in suit lengths and suit shortages In brief, those high cards must be rated at their very lowest.

As the hand stands, it is worth about one bid, to see if West wants to force on the next round. East made the best bid when he indicated his club protection with a bid of that suit. But he should not have spoken again, barring a force, unless West showed a different declaration from his first one, hearts, to make a preference obligatory.

After the deal, East explained that his partner's heart rebid showed the suit long enough to require only three-card support, which he possessed He therefore felt a raise by him was in order. It was not, however, for the simple reason that his hand, taken as a whole, was not good enough. Take two of those diamonds out, and add two cards of any other suit, or one each of two suits, and a raise would be in order. As it is, the side got set one trick, whereas 2-Hearts would have been made—a partial score which would have won the rubber when the next deal produced 2-Spades bid and made

Tomorrow's Problem.

What simple rule should guide East in his defense against North's 6-Diamonds, after 5-Diamonds had been bid originally, West had doubled, East had bid 5 Hearts, and North then had bid 6-Diamonds, doubled by East?

HOROSCOPE

FOR FRIDAY, JULY 3

The astral combination intervening in this day's affairs makes for a close attention to the inner meaning of all that occurs, with keen analysis and insight into transpiring events in the professional as well as social, domestic affectional and artistic realm A serious note may undertone these with an accent on the matter of duty and obligation, on tenets of law and order. Especial caution is recommended in all pertaining to writings, speech, correspondence, travel and change, since swift and ill-considered moves might involve loss and regret. With care there should be prosperity and happiness

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year in which their own devotion to duty, principle and personal obligation, sustained by keen analysis, logic and forthrightness, may result in enduring progress, prosperity and personal happiness. Integrity, vigilance with speech and writings as well as caution in change, travel and business transactions are urged. Over clever and quick moves bespeak loss and regret, with reactions on private satisfactions. There may be tokens of appreciation and love from elderly females.

A child born on this day should have many kindly, sympathetic and high principled traits which should assure it personal happiness Laxity as to speech and writings should be avoided. Rigid business tenets should be inculcated.

A week ago you were told in this space that if Mansfield baseball fans didn't get to see regular Friday evening baseball games at the Fairground the rest of the season, you could blame it on certain members of the fair board who insisted on a guaranteed rental of the former Ohio State league ball yard.

So today I can pass along the good word that there'll probably be regular Friday evening games at the Fairground, starting next week, and for that the fans can thank the fair board.

They've given the Mansfield Travelers ball club such a fair proposition no one can be hurt. And it's now up to the Travelers to book the games.

* * *

Credit where credit is due, I always say, and I'm glad to pass along this bit of credit to the fair board for doing its bit toward supplying recreation through the national pastime during this emergency.

The county's bit toward reviving baseball at the Fairground isn't confined, so I'm told, to merely providing a place to play.

County commissioners have arranged to have the diamond rolled and placed in something resembling playing condition.

* * *

Red Hamman, manager of the Travelers, says his club probably will play Sunday games at the Fairground too, when his Travelers aren't traveling.

* * *

This department has had several queries from sports promoting men this summer about the possibility of successfully staging outstanding baseball attractions at the Fairground.

The manager of the Cleveland team in the National Colored league phoned me early in the season, with the glad tidings that he intended booking exhibition games for the Cleveland club at the Spring Mill street yard during the summer, to break up trips from Cincinnati and other points.

I told him to go look at the diamond and the present seating arrangement, and then let me know his decision. I never heard from him again.

* * *

Hank Rigney, Toledo promoter, who brought Satchel Paige and his Kansas City Monarchs to the Mansfield park last summer, and later the Ethiopian Clowns playing the Toledo Old Dutch Beers, wrote me last week to inquire about the availability of the Fairground for similar games.

Since I gave him the score, I haven't heard from him either.

No, the bleacherless, fenceless ball park of today is no place to make money, so don't expect the Travelers to get rich.

* * *

But if Mansfield fans want baseball, they should give the Travelers enough support to keep them going. The boys are playing for the fun of the thing, and that's all.

GIANTS PREPARE FOR SPRING TRAINING

NEW YORK—(AP)—President Horace C. Stoneham and General Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants will go to Miami, Fla., in mid-July to arrange for the Giants 1943 spring training, it was announced today.

The announcement was interpreted as a rebuke to Jack Zeller, general manager of the Tigers, who suggested recently that spring training be abolished in the major leagues in 1943, and the playing season be shortened by two months.

Bring Out Towels For Yanks

And Let's All Sit Around And Weep.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

IT HAS BEEN some time since anyone needed to feel sorry for the world champion New York Yankees, but their plight is getting more pathetic.

* * *

Since marching boldly out of Yankee stadium nearly three weeks ago they have lost 11 out of 17 contests and last night saw their American league lead cut to three games as they blew a 5-4 decision to the Philadelphia Athletics.

* * *

This was a reduction of 1½ games in their first place margin in a single day because of the Boston Red Sox's second straight doubleheader victory over the Washington Senators.

Washington was held to five hits in each game and the Red Sox made twice as many. They downed Buck Newsom 3-2 in the opener with a run in the seventh and three innings of perfect relief pitching by Yank Terry and then they captured the nightcap with the greatest of ease 7-1.

This put a premium on the three-game series between the Yanks and Red Sox at Fenway park tomorrow and Saturday.

The Cleveland Indians kept within sight of the struggle for the lead by beating the Chicago White Sox 7-2.

* * *

The St. Louis Browns turned loose a 14-hit assault to score in all but one inning and belt the Detroit Tigers 12-0 on the five-hit hurling of Elden Auker.

* * *

Action in the National league was limited to two games with the St. Louis Cardinals shutting out the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0 and the Chicago Cubs cuffing the Cincinnati Reds 5-2 in a night encounter.

Westies Romp In League Tilt

Mansfield Tire, Tappans Also Win Loop Games.

Westinghouse continued on its merry way in city league softball last evening at Johns Park, swamping Hughes-Keenan 16-8. George Hummel led the attack with four hits in as many trips to the platter, while Franks had a perfect day for the losers with two for two.

* * *

Mansfield Tires turned in an easy 7-2 victory over Ideal Electric at Liberty park, but hits were even up at nine apiece.

* * *

A four-run rally in the ninth inning by Local 758 fell far short, and Tappan Stoves took the other game at Prospect park, 12-7. Tappan's got away to a 10-0 lead in the first four innings. Weber got two doubles, and Patterson, Bogantz and Miller one each for the winners.

Tribe Tries For 4 In Row

Score Third Victory Over Chicago Hose.

CHICAGO—(AP)—It won't matter to the army and navy who wins tonight's Indians-White Sox game, since in any event the services' relief funds will get the proceeds, but the Tribe would like to make it four in a row over Chicago.

Chubby Dean will be hurling against Johnny Humphries.

The Indians won their 7 to 2 victory over the Sox yesterday in the first inning and increased their lead over the fourth-place Tigers to two full games, by plating the first seven men to go to bat.

Al Smith until the ninth inning allowed only a pair of singles and a double. In the final chapter, Moses' third single and one-basers by Myril Hoag, Taft Wright and Appling accounted for the Chicagoans' pair of runs.

Cleveland's assault garnered five runs off Rookie Orval Grove before Jake Wade came in to fan Jim Hegan for the game's first out.

Oris Hockett led off by giving Grove's second pitch a ride for two bases, Buster Mills and Ken Keltner got singles and Jeff Heath doubled. Les Fleming was ushered to first intentionally, and when Third Baseman Bob Kennedy fumbled Lou Boudreau's roller the fourth run showed. Ray Mack's single was good for another marker, and Grove departed.

Against Wade, Smith hit a fly which let Boudreau tally, and Hockett singled Mack home with his second hit of the inning. Wade smothered the Tribal bats for the rest of the game, allowing only two more hits.

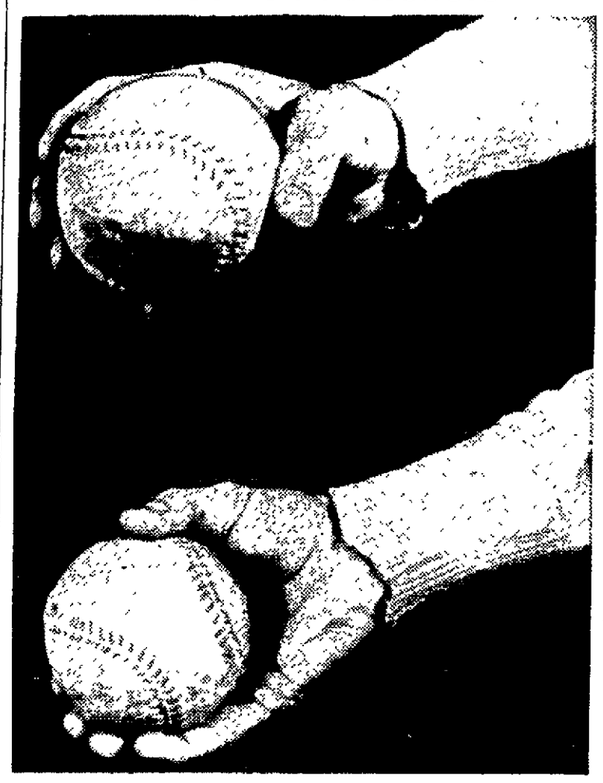
Hints to Softball Pitchers



Expert softball players say pitching constitutes 80 per cent of the team's defensive strength. Harry D. Wilson of Chicago offers these two hints on softball pitching. The fast ball is shown top. The index, middle and third fingers are placed over the seam as much as possible to rotate the ball off the end of the fingers. Release the ball low before the hand begins the upward swing. For the curve ball, below, hold the ball the same as the fast ball. However, the release of the ball between index finger and thumb, plus wrist action, makes the curve. Aim all curve balls at the plate.

Williams Again Finds Dog House

BOSTON—(AP)—Unless penitence has replaced sulkiness, the manymooded Ted Williams, the only member of the hustling Boston Red Sox who challenges the home fans' rights to jeer at will, may feel the disciplinary hand of Manager Joe Cronin today when he reports at Fenway park.

* * *

For the third time since he joined the Red Sox in 1939, Williams, the American league's .406-batting champion, was pulled out of the lineup by Cronin yesterday when, irked by a spectator's jibe he sulked and loafed at the plate.

Williams dressed and quit the park immediately and, after the game, Cronin, visibly annoyed by his star's display of ill-temper, appeared undecided about his disciplinary measures.

"I won't make any decision until game-time tomorrow," Cronin said. "Everything will depend on Williams' attitude."

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—The baseball equipment fund, which gets the first $100,000 of the dough you folks will pay to see the two all-star games, already is $16,000 in the red after starting out last year with $27,500. . . . But Ford Frick, who runs the show, says the fund has managed to provide a little equipment for every outfit in the United States and a few outside. . . . Total administrative expense so far has been just $67.62. . . . By way of showing appreciation, the war department has provided plane priorities so the St. Louis players can get here in time for Monday's game.

Frick Dreams National Win

Asks Managers To Rest Hurlers For Star Tilt.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Ford Frick doesn't mind losing sleep if it will keep his National leaguers from losing the all-star game to the American league.

The two picked squads of the major leagues will square off at the Polo Grounds for their tenth annual outing at 6:30 p. m. (EWT) Monday, a shindig in which the president of the National league has a two-fold interest.

He would like, probably in the order named, (1) to fatten the baseball equipment fund for the armed forces by $100,000, and (2) to flatten the American leaguers for a good many reasons.

Toward those ends he is working tirelessly, making sure that there will be enough customers on hand to reach the first objective and enough pitchers from his own circuit to achieve the second.

"I'll do everything possible to get the strongest team out there," Frick told a group of baseball writers. "I have asked the managers concerned to rest five pitchers for the two days preceding the all-star game, if possible."

The five pitchers are Johnny Vander Meer of Cincinnati, Cliff Melton of New York, Claude Passeau of Chicago, Whitlow Wyatt of Brooklyn and Mort Cooper of St. Louis.

Frick did not mention Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer of the Reds, who complete the league all-star mound staff, since it was obvious that Cincinnati must use some of its better hurlers over the week-end.

As for Cooper, the Cardinal ace and likely starter against the American leaguers, Frick said he would be able to rest the night before the game in a New York hotel.

Pointing out that no world series or all-star game ever had been a sellout in New York, Frick said he had hopes of filling the Polo Grounds to its 56,000 capacity for this game.

Teams Battle For 2nd Place

Scramble Threatens To Involve Four Clubs.

(By Associated Press)

A three-way race for third place in the American association soon may engulf Milwaukee and turn the fight into a four-team second place scramble.

* * *

The situation went unchaaged last night as both second place Milwaukee and third place Minneapolis split even in their respective double headers. The even breaks enabled Milwaukee to maintain its game and a half lead over Minneapolis which in turn stayed a half a game ahead of Columbus and Louisville.

Milwaukee pounded across seven runs in the last inning of the first game to break a tie and defeat Louisville 9 to 1. The Colonels won the second 7 to 1.

Minneapolis likewise got its winning margin in the last inning of the first game nosing out Columbus 2 to 1. The Millers lost the second 10 to 1.

Kansas City went 10 innings before defeating Indianapolis 3 to 1.

Toledo beat St. Paul 6 to 4.

BOB KUZAVA CHALKS UP TWELFTH VICTORY

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—Charleston was five and one-half games out front in the Mid-Atlantic league today after former Mansfield Brave Bob Kuzava pitched his 12th win, against one loss, as the Senators defeated Springfield 2 to 0 last night.

Dayton took a 2 to 0 decision from Erie. The Zanesville-Canton game was postponed.

GALION—Profits will be donated to the Galion Civilian Defense activities when the Sunset Ramblers Motorcycle club of Galion sponsor a nine-event racing meet at the Morrow county fairgrounds in Mt. Gilead, Sunday, July 5.

North Lake And Johns Win

Wet Grounds Change Softball Scenery.

Wet grounds at Johns Park yesterday forced the Y. M. C. A. softball league to move their games to Maple Lake where they were able to get in both scheduled tilts.

Johns Park softballers didn't mind the switch, they defeated Brinkerhoff 10-4 behind the four-hit hurling of R. Hunt.

And North Lake was right at home with an 8-1 victory over Prospect.

TWO TEAMS PICKED FOR INT STAR GAME

NEW YORK—(INS)—Twenty on each team have been named for the International league's first all-star game to be held in Buffalo next Wednesday night, it was announced today by Frank Shaughnessy, president of the league.

The rival managers, Billy Meyer of Newark for the south and Al Vincent of the north, will name two personal selections later. Vincent is piloting the north team in lieu of Clyde Sukeforth of Montreal who has an appointment with his draft board on that day.

Ducky-Wucky Joe Medwick, the Brooklyn outfielder who boasts a 10-year-major league batting average of .332, is whaling the ball at a terrific pace again and is in the thick of the fight for the National league batting leadership. Medwick, off to a poor start, now is hitting around the .350 mark and is in hot pursuit of the leaders, Babe Phelps of Pittsburgh and Pete Reiser of the Dodgers. Medwick won the batting crown in 1937 with a .374 average. He was with the Cardinals then.

STAR GAMES TO SEND DRIVE OVER $800,000

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The all-star baseball games at New York and Cleveland next week and completion of a series of benefit games by both circuits will send the major leagues war relief drive past its goal of $800,000, National League President Ford Frick said today.

The majors already have Frick said, and the balance reached the halfway mark, should easily be attained by the remainder of the program. This $800,000 total does not include an expected share of the World Series money, which may send the fund close to $1,000,000. Frick said plans for the series were still "under consideration."

The USGA emphasized, however, that the returns were incomplete and although 432 clubs have sent in returns, there were still 368 to report. The money came from entry fees at the various golf clubs, public courses and associations for the first Hale America series.

Pastor Turns Down Fights

NEW YORK—(AP)—You'll never believe this, but Jimmy Johnston was just about speechless today.

As a matter of fact, the entire fight industry was struck more or less incoherent.

* * *

For the guys in the business had just learned that Rapid Robert Pastor is turning his back on a little matter of a hundred and fifty thousand dollars that he could pick up in a few fights this summer.

* * *

The offers Johnston has received so far make a pile big enough to fill his derby. He can get $25,000 for Rapid Robert to take on Harry Bobo in Pittsburgh or Cleveland or both. There's $20,000 waiting for a return go with Jimmy Bivins in Cleveland and $25,000 more if he wants to maul with Melio Bettina in Chicago, and $15,000 to fight Lou Nova in Chicago and $10,000 for Lee Savold in Detroit or Toledo, and either $7,500 or $5,000 to appear against a couple of lesser known lights in Toledo.

* * *

As Jimmy showed you there, a telegraph messenger delivered wires which guaranteed Pastor $10,000 to fight either Pat Valentino or Turkey Thompson in Los Angeles.

* * *

"So I called Bob up," the big noise related, "and what do you think he told me: "'Pop, I feel swell . . . I just shot an 88. I'm gonna keep playing this game until the middle of August. Then maybe I'll be ready to fight."

Stella Walsh to Meet Conqueror

OCEAN CITY, N. J.—(U.P.)—A critical test of the track prowess of Stella Walsh, long-time fleetest and strongest of women runners, will feature the 16th annual women's National A. A. U. championships to be held here Saturday.

For the third consecutive year Stella will compete with Jean Lane, who already has beaten her in three national championship events.

Track authorities said Saturday's competition will decide Miss Walsh's future in the athletic world. If the young colored girl from Wilberforce university again surpasses her, Stella may retire from track activities.

In 1940, Jean flashed across the finish line in the A. A. U. 100-meter event with Stella trailing. Last year she defeated the former Olympic and international star twice by winning the 100 and 200 meter runs.

"NO GIN" needn't dim a Collins-drinker's grin!

Don't weep! Uncle Sam needs Hiram Walker's gin stills for making war alcohol. So we are no longer making White Swan, Five O'Clock, London Dry, and other favorite Hiram Walker gins. But for you who pine for a long, tall, cool frosty cooler, here's news worth living for... IMPERIAL, Hiram Walker's Blended Whiskey, makes a Collins you'll cheer for.

Try an "Imperial Collins"! Try a long, tall, cool one with IMPERIAL as the "makin's." It's grand—it makes a Collins that's something to rave about. Because it's "velveted." And "velveting" makes IMPERIAL smoother, lighter—makes it a Collins-drinker's delight. Ask for an IMPERIAL Collins at your bar—or follow the recipe below. Shake one up—and cheer!

HOW TO MAKE AN IMPERIAL COLLINS

Shake together: juice of one lemon, 1 jigger of IMPERIAL (the "velveted" whiskey that does such a grand Collins job) and two or three ice cubes. Sweeten to taste. Shake till well chilled. Then—pour into a tall glass, fill with fizz water—and just "um" and "ah" over one of the swellest drinks a Collins drinker ever discovered!

MANY LEADERS DISCOVERED IN MINUS COLUMN

General Motors and Chrysler Edge Forward on Market At Quiet Opening.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — General Motors and Chrysler managed to edge forward in today's early stock market transactions but many leaders appeared in the minus column.

At a quiet opening losers of fractions included U. S. Steel, Anaconda and N. Y. Central.

Market trend students noted the Dun & Bradstreet summary disclosing that, while total bank clearings in principal cities last week topped the comparable 1941 period by 3.3 per cent, uneven tendencies prevailed in many districts.

The year-to-year clearings increase percentagewise amounted to 36.2 for Cleveland, 34.9 for Portland, Ore., 23.2 for Omaha, 18 for San Francisco and 15.6 for Kansas City. Under last year's figures were Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Minneapolis.

HAITI ECOONMY SOLUTION SEEN IN SHADA PLAN

Experiment Promises to Alter Economic Set-up of Nation.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—United States government economists are watching with keen interest an experiment in Haiti which promises to alter radically the entire economy of that Caribbean country and set an example for other countries of the New World to follow.

If the experiment is successful, the French-speaking island republic may be able, in the not too distant future, to avoid to a large degree the economic shocks and dislocations which usually come to countries with relatively undiversified economies

The story of Haiti's experiment goes back to the months preceding this country's entry into the war The European hostilities had greatly reduced the demand for Haiti's cotton, coffee, sugar and cocoa Prices were down and jobs were hard to get.

Haitian leaders brought their problem to the United States, and after considerable discussion it was decided to set up a joint Haitian-American corporation, known as the Societe Haitien-Americaine de Development Agricole, to develop new crops, increase and improve the production of old ones and, in general, work out a long-range agricultural program.

The United States Export-Import Bank supplied a $5,000,000 credit to SHADA, as the enterprise is now popularly known, and its backers immediately plunged into the job of making it work

Anticipating an urgent need for rubber as a result of the growing threat of war in the far East, SHADA intensified the exploitation of old rubber trees and began planting new ones on an extensive scale. The old trees now are supplying 350 pounds of rubber a month. New planting total 2,500,000 trees.

SHADA is well on the way to becoming the second largest rubber-growing enterprise in the hemisphere. It is surpassed only by the Ford plantations in the Amazon valley. It is estimated that Haiti has at least 100,000 acres suitable for rubber production.

The spark behind SHADA's energy and enterprise is its youthful president and general manager, Thomas A. Fennell. Fennell recently came to Washington to confer with President Roosevelt about SHADA's progress.

He disclosed at that time that SHADA would take on the job of helping supply the United States with sisal and medicinal plants formerly obtained from the Far East SHADA plans to plant 12,000 acres of sisal, a fiber-yielding plant which can be grown relatively quickly.

SHADA has about 4,000 workers in Haiti's forests and cultivated areas. The corporation's main revenue is presently derived from cutting and caring for some 150,000 acres of forest turned over to it by the Haitian government. In the future, however, when the rubber trees and other plants begin to yield, SHADA expects to obtain a large part of its revenue from these sources.
